The Little Match Girl

It was so terribly cold. Snow was falling, and it was almost dark. Evening came on, the last evening of the year. In the cold and gloom a poor little girl, bareheaded and barefoot, was walking through the streets.

Of course when she had left her house she'd had slippers on, but what good had they been? They were very big slippers, way too big for her, for they belonged to her mother. The little girl had lost them running across the road, where two carriages had rattled by terribly fast.

One slipper she'd not been able to find again, and a boy had run off with the other, saying he could use it very well as a cradle some day when he had children of his own. And so the little girl walked on her naked feet, which were quite red and blue with the cold. In an old apron she carried several packages of matches, and she held a box of them in her hand. No one had bought any from her all day long, and no one had given her a cent.

Shivering with cold and hunger, she crept along, a picture of misery, poor little girl! The snowflakes fell on her long fair hair, which hung in pretty curls over her neck. In all the windows lights were shining, and there was a wonderful smell of roast goose, for it was New Year's eve. Yes, she thought of that!

In a corner formed by two houses, one of which projected farther out into the street than the other, she sat down and drew up her little feet under her. She was getting colder and colder, but did not dare to go home, for she had sold no matches, nor earned a single cent, and her father would surely beat her. Besides, it was cold at home, for they had nothing over them but a roof through which the wind whistled even though the biggest cracks had been stuffed with straw and rags.

Her hands were almost dead with cold. Oh, how much one little match might warm her! If she could only take one from the box and rub it against the wall and warm her hands. She drew one out. R-r-ratch! How it sputtered and burned! It made a warm, bright flame, like a little candle, as she held her hands over it; but it gave a strange light! It really seemed to the little girl as if she were sitting before a great iron stove with shining brass knobs and a brass cover. How wonderfully the fire burned! How comfortable it was! The youngster stretched out her feet to warm them too; then the little flame went out, the stove vanished, and she had only the remains of the burnt match in her hand.

She struck another match against the wall. It burned brightly, and when the light fell upon the wall it became transparent like a thin veil, and she could see through it into a room. On the table a snow-white cloth was spread, and on it stood a shining dinner service. The roast goose steamed gloriously, stuffed with apples and prunes. And what was still better, the goose jumped down from the dish and waddled along the floor with a knife and fork in its breast, right over to the little girl. Then the match went out, and she could see only the thick, cold wall. She lighted another match.

Then she was sitting under the most beautiful Christmas tree. It was much larger and much more beautiful than the one she had seen last Christmas through the glass door at the rich merchant's home. Thousands of candles burned on the green branches, and colored pictures like those in the printshops looked down at her. The little girl reached both her hands toward them. Then the match went out. But the Christmas lights mounted higher. She saw them now as bright stars in the sky. One of them fell down, forming a long line of fire.

"Now someone is dying," thought the little girl, for her old grandmother, the only person who had loved her, and who was now dead, had told her that when a star fell down a soul went up to God.

She rubbed another match against the wall. It became bright again, and in the glow the old grandmother stood clear and shining, kind and lovely.

"Grandmother!" cried the child. "Oh, take me with you! I know you will disappear when the match is burned out. You will vanish like the warm stove, the wonderful roast goose and the beautiful big Christmas tree!"

And she quickly struck the whole bundle of matches, for she wished to keep her grandmother with her. And the matches burned with such a glow that it became brighter than daylight. Grandmother had never been so grand and beautiful. She took the little girl in her arms, and both of them flew in brightness and joy above the earth, very, very high, and up there was neither cold, nor hunger, nor fear — they were with God.

But in the corner, leaning against the wall, sat the little girl with red cheeks and smiling mouth, frozen to death on the last evening of the old year. The New Year's sun rose upon a little pathetic figure. The child sat there, stiff and cold, holding the matches, of which one bundle was almost burned.

"She wanted to warm herself," the people said. No one imagined what beautiful things she had seen, and how happily she had gone with her old grandmother into the bright New Year.

The Little Match Girl

A translation of Hans Christian Andersen's "Den lille Pige med Svovlstikkerne" by CAROLINE PEACHEY.

It was dreadfully cold, it was snowing fast, and almost dark; the evening — the last evening of the old year — was drawing in. But, cold and dark as it was, a poor little girl, with bare head and feet, was still wandering about the streets.

When she left her home she had slippers on, but they were much too large for her — indeed, properly, they belonged to her mother — and had dropped off her feet whilst she was running very fast across the road, to get out of the way of two carriages. One of the slippers was not to be found; the other had been snatched up by a little boy, who ran off with it, thinking it might serve him as a doll's cradle.

So the little girl now walked on, her bare feet quite red and blue with the cold. She carried a small bundle of matches in her hand, and a good many more in her tattered apron. No one had bought any of them the live-long day — no one had given her a single penny.

Trembling with cold and hunger crept she on, the picture of sorrow: poor little child! The snow-flakes fell on her long, fair hair, which curled in such pretty ringlets over her shoulders; but she thought not of her own beauty, or of the cold. Lights were glimmering through every window, and the savour of roast goose reached her from several houses; it was New Year's eve, and it was of this that she thought.

In a corner formed by two houses, one of which projected beyond the other, she sat down, drawing her little feet close under her, but in vain — she could not warm them. She dared not go home, she had sold no matches, earned not a single penny, and perhaps her father would beat her; besides, her home was almost as cold as the street — it was an attic; and, although the larger of the many chinks in the roof were stopped up with straw and rags, the wind and snow often penetrated through. Her hands were nearly dead with cold; one little match from her bundle would warm them, perhaps, if she dared light it.

She drew one out, and struck it against the wall: bravo! it was a bright, warm flame, and she held her hands over it. It was quite an illumination for that poor little girl, — nay, call it rather a magic taper, — for it seemed to her as though she were sitting before a large iron-stove with brass ornaments, so beautifully blazed the fire within!

The child stretched out her feet to warm them also: alas! in an instant the flame had died away, the stove vanished, the little girl sat cold and comfortless, with the burnt match in her hand. A second match was struck against the wall; it kindled and blazed, and wherever its light fell the wall became transparent as a veil — the little girl could see into the room within.

She saw the table spread with a snow-white damask cloth, whereon were ranged shining china-dishes; the roast goose stuffed with apples and dried plums stood at one end, smoking-hot, and — which was pleasantest of all to see — the goose, with knife and fork still in her breast, jumped down from the dish, and waddled along the floor right up to the poor child.

The match was burnt out, and only the thick, hard wall was beside her. She kindled a third match. Again shot up the flame; — and now she was sitting under a most beautiful Christmas-tree, far larger, and far more prettily decked out, than the one she had seen last Christmas-eve through the glass doors of the rich merchant's house. Hundreds of wax-tapers lighted up the green branches, and tiny painted figures, such as she had seen in the shop-windows, looked down from the tree upon her.

The child stretched out her hands towards them in delight, and in that moment the light of the match was quenched; still, however, the Christmas candles burned higher and higher — she beheld them beaming like stars in heaven: one of them fell, the lights streaming behind it like a long, fiery tail. "Now some one is dying," said the little girl, softly, for she had been told by her old grandmother — the only person who had ever been kind to her, and who was now dead — that whenever a star falls an immortal spirit returns to the God who gave it. She struck yet another match against the wall; it flamed up, and, surrounded by its light, appeared before her that same dear grandmother, gentle and loving as always, but bright and happy as she had never looked during her lifetime.

"Grandmother!" exclaimed the child, "oh, take me with you! I know thou wilt leave me as soon as the match goes out — thou wilt vanish like the warm fire in the stove, like the splendid New Year's feast, like the beautiful large Christmas-tree!" and she hastily lighted all the remaining matches in the bundle, lest her grandmother should disappear. And the matches burned with such a blaze of splendour, that noon-day could scarcely have been brighter.

Never had the good old grandmother looked so tall and stately, so beautiful and kind; she took the little girl in her arms, and they both flew together — joyfully and gloriously they flew — higher and higher, till they were in that place where neither cold, nor hunger, nor pain, is ever known — they were in Paradise.

But in the cold morning hour, crouching in the corner of the wall, the poor little girl was found — her cheeks glowing, her lips smiling — frozen to death on the last night of the Old Year. The New Year's sun shone on the lifeless child; motionless she sat there with the matches in her lap, one bundle of them quite burnt out.

"She has been trying to warm herself, poor thing!" the people said; but no one knew of the sweet visions she had beheld, or how gloriously she and her grandmother were celebrating their New Year's festival.

It was terribly cold; it snowed and was already almost dark, and evening came on, the last evening of the year. In the cold and gloom a poor little girl, bare headed and barefoot, was walking through the streets.

When she left her own house she certainly had had slippers on; but of what use were they? They were very big slippers, and her mother had used them till then, so big were they. The little maid lost them as she slipped across the road, where two carriages were rattling by terribly fast.

Her little hands were almost benumbed with the cold. Ah! a match might do her good, if she could only draw one from the bundle, and rub it against the wall, and warm her hands at it.

And the matches burned with such a glow that it became brighter than in the middle of the day; grandmother had never been so large or so beautiful. She took the little girl in her arms, and both flew in brightness and joy above the earth, very, very high, and up there was neither cold, nor hunger, nor care — they were with God!

But in the corner, leaning against the wall, sat the poor girl with red cheeks and smiling mouth, frozen to death on the last evening of the Old Year. The New Year's sun rose upon a little corpse!

Most terribly cold it was; it snowed, and was nearly quite dark, and evening -- the last evening of the year. In this cold and darkness there went along the street a poor little girl, bareheaded, and with naked feet.

When she left home she had slippers on, it is true; but what was the good of that? They were very large slippers, which her mother had hitherto worn; so large were they, and the poor little thing lost them as she scuffled away across the street, because of two carriages that rolled by dreadfully fast.

One slipper was nowhere to be found; the other had been laid hold of by an urchin, and off he ran with it; he thought it would do capitally for a cradle when he some day or other should have children himself. So the little maiden walked on with her tiny naked feet, that were quite red and blue from cold. She carried a quantity of matches in an old apron, and she held a bundle of them in her hand. Nobody had bought anything of her the whole livelong day, no one had given her a single farthing.

She crept along trembling with cold and hunger -- a very picture of sorrow, the poor little thing! The flakes of snow covered her long fair hair, which fell in beautiful curls around her neck; but of that, of course, she never once now thought. From all the windows the candles were gleaming, and it smelt so deliciously of roast goose, for you know it was New Year's Eve; yes, of that she thought.

In a corner formed by two houses, of which one advanced more than the other, she seated herself down and cowered together. Her little feet she had drawn close up to her, but she grew colder and colder, and to go home she did not venture, for she had not sold any matches and could not bring a farthing of money: from her father she would certainly get blows, and at home it was cold too, for above her she had only the roof, through which the wind whistled, even though the largest cracks were stopped up with straw and rags. Her little hands were almost numbed with cold. Oh! a match might afford her a world of comfort, if she only dared take a single one out of the bundle, draw it against the wall, and warm her fingers by it.

She drew one out. "Rischt!" how it blazed, how it burnt! It was a warm, bright flame, like a candle, as she held her hands over it: it was a wonderful light. It seemed really to the little maiden as though she were sitting before a large iron stove, with burnished brass feet and a brass ornament at top. The fire burned with such blessed influence; it warmed so delightfully. The little girl had already stretched out her feet to warm them too; but -- the small flame went out, the stove vanished: she had only the remains of the burnt-out match in her hand. She rubbed another against the wall: it burned brightly, and where the light fell on the wall, there the wall became transparent like a veil, so that she could see into the room.

On the table was spread a snow-white tablecloth; upon it was a splendid porcelain service, and the roast goose was steaming famously with its stuffing of apple and dried plums. And what was still more capital to behold was, the goose hopped down from the dish, reeled about on the floor with knife and fork in its breast, till it came up to the poor little girl; when -- the match went out and nothing but the thick, cold, damp wall was left behind. She lighted another match.

Now there she was sitting under the most magnificent Christmas tree: it was still larger, and more decorated than the one which she had seen through the glass door in the rich merchant's house. Thousands of lights were burning on the green branches, and gaily-colored pictures, such as she had seen in the shop-windows, looked down upon her. The little maiden stretched out her hands towards them when -- the match went out. The lights of the Christmas tree rose higher and higher, she saw them now as stars in heaven; one fell down and formed a long trail of fire.

"Someone is just dead!" said the little girl; for her old grandmother, the only person who had loved her, and who was now no more, had told her, that when a star falls, a soul ascends to God. She drew another match against the wall: it was again light, and in the lustre there stood the old grandmother, so bright and radiant, so mild, and with such an expression of love.

"Grandmother!" cried the little one. "Oh, take me with you! You go away when the match burns out; you vanish like the warm stove, like the delicious roast goose, and like the magnificent Christmas tree!" And she rubbed the whole bundle of matches quickly against the wall, for she wanted to be quite sure of keeping her grandmother near her.

And the matches gave such a brilliant light that it was brighter than at noon-day: never formerly had the grandmother been so beautiful and so tall. She took the little maiden, on her arm, and both flew in brightness and in joy so high, so very high, and then above was neither cold, nor hunger, nor anxiety -- they were with God.

But in the corner, at the cold hour of dawn, sat the poor girl, with rosy cheeks and with a smiling mouth, leaning against the wall -- frozen to death on the last evening of the old year.

Stiff and stark sat the child there with her matches, of which one bundle had been burnt.

"She wanted to warm herself," people said. No one had the slightest suspicion of what beautiful things she had seen; no one even dreamed of the splendor in which, with her grandmother she had entered on the joys of a new year.

The Little Match Girl

It was late on a bitterly cold, snowy, New Year's Eve. A poor little girl was wandering in the dark cold streets; she was bareheaded and barefooted. She certainly had had slippers on when she left home, but they were not much good, for they were so huge. They had last been worn by her mother, and they fell off the poor little girl's feet when she was running across the street to avoid two carriages that were rolling rapidly by.

One of the shoes could not be found at all; and the other was picked up by a boy who ran off with it, saying that it would do for a cradle when he had children of his own. So the poor little girl had to go on with her little bare feet, which were red and blue with the cold. She carried a quantity of matches in her old apron, and held a packet of them in her hand. Nobody had bought any of her during all the long day; nobody had even given her a copper.

The poor little creature was hungry and perishing with cold, and she looked the picture of misery. The snowflakes fell upon her long yellow hair, which curled so prettily round her face, but she paid no attention to that. Lights were shining from every window, and there was a most delicious odour of roast goose in the streets, for it was New Year's Eve - she could not forget that.

She found a corner where one house projected a little beyond the next one, and here she crouched, drawing up her feet under her, but she was colder than ever. She did not dare to go home, for she had not sold any matches, and had not earned a single penny. Her father would beat her, besides it was almost as cold at home as it was here. They only had the roof over them and the wind whistled through it although they stuffed up the biggest cracks with rags and straw. Her little hands were almost dead with cold. Oh, one little match would do some good!

Dared she pull one out of the bundle and strike it on the wall to warm her fingers! She pulled one out, "risch," how it spluttered, how it blazed! It burnt with a bright clear flame, just like a little candle when she held her hand round it. It was a very curious candle too. The little girl fancied that she was sitting in front of a big stove with polished brass feet and handles.

There was a splendid fire blazing in it and warming her so beautifully, but — what happened — just as she was stretching out her feet to warm them, — the blaze went out, the stove vanished, and she was left sitting with the end of the burnt-out match in her hand. She struck a new one, it burnt, it blazed up, and where the light fell upon the wall, it became transparent like gauze, and she could see right through it into the room.

The table was spread with a snowy cloth and pretty china; a roast goose stuffed with apples and prunes was steaming on it. And what was even better, the goose hopped from the dish with the carving knife and fork sticking in his back, and it waddled across the floor. It came right up to the poor child, and then — the match went out, and there was nothing to be seen but the thick black wall. Again, she lit another.

This time she was sitting under a lovely Christmas tree. It was much bigger and more beautifully decorated than the one she had seen when she peeped through the glass doors at the rich merchant's house this very last Christmas. Thousands of lighted candles gleamed upon its branches, and coloured pictures, such as she had seen in the shop windows, looked down to her. The little girl stretched out both her hands towards them — then out went the match. All the Christmas candles rose higher and higher, till she saw that they were only the twinkling stars. One of them fell and made a bright streak of light across the sky.

"Some one is dying," thought the little girl; for her old grandmother, the only person who had ever been kind to her, used to say, "When a star falls a soul is going up to God." Now she struck another match against the wall, and this time it was her grandmother who appeared in the circle of flame. She saw her quite clearly and distinctly, looking so gentle and happy.

"Grandmother!" cried the little creature. "Oh, do take me with you! I know you will vanish when the match goes out; you will vanish like the warm stove, the delicious goose, and the beautiful Christmas tree!" She hastily struck a whole bundle of matches, because she did so long to keep her grandmother with her. The light of the matches made it as bright as day. Grandmother had never before looked so big or so beautiful.

She lifted the little girl up in her arms, and they soared in a halo of light and joy, far, far above the earth, where there was no more cold, no hunger, no pain, for they were with God.

In the cold morning light the poor little girl sat there, in the corner between the houses, with rosy cheeks and a smile on her face — dead. Frozen to death on the last night of the old year. New Year's Day broke on the little body still sitting with the ends of the burnt-out matches in her hand.

She must have tried to warm herself, they said. Nobody knew what beautiful visions she had seen, nor in what a halo she had entered with her grandmother upon the glories of the New Year!

IT WAS dreadfully cold; it was snowing fast, and was almost dark, as evening came on — the last evening of the year. In the cold and the darkness, there went along the street a poor little girl, bareheaded and with naked feet. When she left home she had slippers on, it is true; but they were much too large for her feet — slippers that her mother had used till then, and the poor little girl lost them in running across the street when two carriages were passing terribly fast.

When she looked for them, one was not to be found, and a boy seized the other and ran away with it, saying he would use it for a cradle some day, when he had children of his own.

So on the little girl went with her bare feet, that were red and blue with cold. In an old apron that she wore were bundles of matches, and she carried a bundle also in her hand. No one had bought so much as a bunch all the long day, and no one had given her even a penny. Poor little girl!

Shivering with cold and hunger she crept along, a perfect picture of misery. The snowflakes fell on her long flaxen hair, which hung in pretty curls about her throat; but she thought not of her beauty nor of the cold. Lights gleamed in every window, and there came to her the savory smell of roast goose, for it was New Year's Eve. And it was this of which she thought.

In a corner formed by two houses, one of which projected beyond the other, she sat cowering down. She had drawn under her her little feet, but still she grew colder and colder; yet she dared not go home, for she had sold no matches and could not bring a penny of money. Her father would certainly beat her; and, besides, it was cold enough at home, for they had only the house-roof above them, and though the largest holes had been stopped with straw and rags, there were left many through which the cold wind could whistle. And now her little hands were nearly frozen with cold. Alas! a single match might do her good if she might only draw it from the bundle, rub it against the wall, and warm her fingers by it.

So at last she drew one out. Whisht! How it blazed and burned! It gave out a warm, bright flame like a little candle, as she held her hands over it. A wonderful little light it was. It really seemed to the little girl as if she sat before a great iron stove with polished brass feet and brass shovel and tongs. So blessedly it burned that the little maiden stretched out her feet to warm them also. How comfortable she was! But lo! the flame went out, the stove vanished, and nothing remained but the little burned match in her hand.

She rubbed another match against the wall. It burned brightly, and where the light fell upon the wall it became transparent like a veil, so that she could see through it into the room. A snow-white cloth was spread upon the table, on which was a beautiful china dinner-service, while a roast goose, stuffed with apples and prunes, steamed famously and sent forth a most savory smell. And what was more delightful still, and wonderful, the goose jumped from the dish, with knife and fork still in its breast, and waddled along the floor straight to the little girl. But the match went out then, and nothing was left to her but the thick, damp wall. She lighted another match.

And now she was under a most beautiful Christmas tree, larger and far more prettily trimmed than the one she had seen through the glass doors at the rich merchant's. Hundreds of wax tapers were burning on the green branches, and gay figures, such as she had seen in shop windows, looked down upon her. The child stretched out her hands to them; then the match went out. Still the lights of the Christmas tree rose higher and higher. She saw them now as stars in heaven, and one of them fell, forming a long trail of fire.

"Now some one is dying," murmured the child softly; for her grandmother, the only person who had loved her, and who was now dead, had told her that whenever a star falls a soul mounts up to God. She struck yet another match against the wall, and again it was light; and in the brightness there appeared before her the dear old grandmother, bright and radiant, yet sweet and mild, and happy as she had never looked on earth.

"Oh, grandmother," cried the child, "take me with you. I know you will go away when the match burns out. You, too, will vanish, like the warm stove, the splendid New Year's feast, the beautiful Christmas tree." And lest her grandmother should disappear, she rubbed the whole bundle of matches against the wall. And the matches burned with such a brilliant light that it became brighter than noonday.

Her grandmother had never looked so grand and beautiful. She took the little girl in her arms, and both flew together, joyously and gloriously, mounting higher and higher, far above the earth; and for them there was neither hunger, nor cold, nor care — they were with God.

But in the corner, at the dawn of day, sat the poor girl, leaning against the wall, with red cheeks and smiling mouth — frozen to death on the last evening of the old year. Stiff and cold she sat, with the matches, one bundle of which was burned.

"She wanted to warm herself, poor little thing," people said. No one imagined what sweet visions she had had, or how gloriously she had gone with her grandmother to enter upon the joys of a new year.

It was terribly cold; the snow was falling, and the dark evening was setting in; it was the last evening of the year — New Year's Eve. In this cold and uncomfortable darkness a poor little girl, bareheaded and barefooted, was walking through the streets.

She had certainly had some sort of slippers on when she left her home, but they were not of much use to her, as they were very large slippers. Her mother had used them last, so you can guess they were large ones. As the little girl ran across the street just as two carriages were passing at a terrible rate, she lost the slippers.

One of the slippers could not be found, and the other a boy ran away with. He said he would use it for a cradle when he got children of his own. There was the little girl walking about on her naked little feet; they were red and blue with cold. In an old pinafore she had some bundles of matches, and in her hand she carried one of them. No one had bought anything of her the whole day, and no one had given her a penny.

Hungry and shivering, she passed on, poor little girl, looking the very picture of misery. The snowflakes fell on her long yellow hair, which curled itself so beautifully about her neck; but of course she had no thoughts for such vanities. Lights were shining in all the windows, and there was such a delicious smell of roast goose in the street. "Ah! it is New Year's Eve," she thought.

Over in a corner between two houses — the one projected a little beyond the other — she crouched down, with her little feet drawn up under her; but she felt colder and colder, and she dared not go home, for she had not sold any matches or got a single penny; her father would beat her, and, besides, it was just as cold at home.

They certainly had a roof over their heads, but through this the wind whistled, although they had stopped the largest cracks with rags and straw. Her little hands were quite benumbed with cold. Ah! a match might do some good. If she only dared to take one out of the bundle and rub it against the wall, and warm her fingers over the flame!

She took one out — ratch! — how it sputtered, how it burned! It was a warm, clear flame, just like a little candle, when she held her hand round it. It was a wonderful light; the little girl thought she was sitting right before a great iron stove with bright brass feet and brass mountings. How beautiful the fire burned! How it warmed her! But what was that? The little girl stretched her feet out to warm them also, and the flame went out — the stove vanished — she had only the small stump of the burned match in her hand.

A new match was rubbed against the wall; it burned, it gave a beautiful light, and where the light fell on the wall it became transparent like a veil. She could see right into the room, where the table was covered with a bright white cloth, and on it a fine china dinner service; the roast goose, stuffed with prunes and apples, was steaming beautifully. But, what was still more delightful, the goose jumped from the dish and waddled along the floor, with knife and fork in its back, straight toward the poor girl, when the match went out, and there was only the thick, cold wall to be seen.

She lighted a new match. Then she was sitting under a beautiful Christmas-tree; it was still larger and more decorated than that she had seen through the glass door at the rich merchant's last Christmas. Thousands of candles burned upon the green branches, and colored pictures, like those that you see in the shop windows, were looking down upon her. The little girl stretched both her hands toward them — and the match went out. The light seemed to go farther and farther away from her. She saw now that they were the bright stars. One of them fell down, leaving a long train of fire after it.

"Now some one is dying," said the little one. Her old grandmother, who was the only one who had been good to her, but was now dead, had told her when a star falls a soul goes to God. She rubbed a match again on the wall. It gave such a light, and in its luster stood the old grandmother — so clear, so bright, so mild, so blessed!

"Grandmother," cried the little one, "oh, take me with you! I know you will be gone when the match goes out — gone, just like the warm stove, the beautiful roast goose, and the great, beautiful Christmas tree." And she rubbed quickly all the remaining matches in the bundle, — she would not lose her grandmother, — and the matches burned with such a splendor that it was brighter than in the middle of the day. Grandmother had never before been so beautiful, so grand. She took the little girl in her arms, and they flew away in brightness and joy, so high — high, where there was no cold, no hunger, no fear — they were with God!

But, next morning, in the corner by the house sat the little girl with red cheeks and a smile about her mouth, dead — frozen to death on the last evening of the old year. The sun of New Year's morning rose up on the little corpse, with the matches in the pinafore, and one bundle nearly burned.

"She wanted to warm herself," said the people. No one knew what beautiful visions she had had, and in what splendor she had gone into the New Year's joy and happiness with her old grandmother.

The Little Match Girl

It was dreadfully cold, it snowed, and was getting quite dark, for it was evening — yes, the last evening of the year. Amid the cold and the darkness, a little girl, with bare head and naked feet, was roaming through the streets.

It is true she had on a pair of slippers when she left home, but that was not of much use, for they were very large slippers; so large, indeed, that they had hitherto been used by her mother; besides, the little creature lost them as she hurried across the street, to avoid two carriages, that were driving at a fearful rate.

One of the slippers was not to be found, and the other was pounced upon by a boy, who ran away with it, saying that it would serve for a cradle when he should have children of his own. So the little girl went along, with her little bare feet, that were red and blue with cold. She carried a number of matches in an old apron, and she held a bundle of them in her hand. Nobody had bought anything of her the whole livelong day, and nobody had even given her a penny.

She crept along, shivering with cold and hunger, a perfect picture of misery — poor little thing! The snow-flakes covered her long flaxen hair, which hung in pretty curls round her throat; but she heeded them not. Lights were streaming from all the windows, and there was a savoury smell of roast goose; for it was St. Sylvester's evening. And this she did heed.

She now sat down, cowering in a corner formed by two houses, one of which projected beyond the other. She had drawn her little feet under her, but she felt colder than ever; yet she dared not return home, for she had not sold a match, and could not bring back a penny. Her father would certainly beat her; and it was cold enough at home, besides — for they had only the roof above them, and the wind came howling through it, though the largest holes had been stopped with straw and rags.

Her little hands were nearly frozen with cold. Alas! a single match might do her some good, if she might only draw one out of the bundle, and rub it against the wall, and warm her fingers.

So at last she drew one out. Whisht! how it shed sparks, and how it burned! It gave out a warm, bright flame, like a little candle, as she held her hands over it, — truly, it was a wonderful little light! It really seemed to the little girl as if she were sitting before a large iron stove, with polished brass feet, and brass shovel and tongs. The fire burned so blessedly, and warmed so nicely, that the little creature stretched out her feet to warm them likewise, when lo! the flame expired, the stove vanished, and left nothing but the little half-burned match in her hand.

She rubbed another match against the wall. It gave a light, and where it shone upon the wall, the latter became as transparent as a veil, and she could see into the room. A snow-white tablecloth was spread upon the table, on which stood a splendid china dinner service, while a roast goose, stuffed with apples and prunes, sent forth the most savoury odour. And what was more delightful still, the goose jumped down from the dish, and waddled along the ground with a knife and fork in its breast, up to the poor girl. The match then went out, and nothing remained but the thick, damp wall.

She lit another match. She now sat under the most magnificent Christmas tree, that was larger, and more superbly decked, than even the one she had seen through the glass door at the rich merchant's. A thousand tapers burned on its green branches, and gay pictures, such as one sees on targets, seemed to be looking down upon her. The match then went out. The Christmas lights kept rising higher and higher. They now looked like stars in the sky. One of them fell down, and left a long streak of fire.

"Somebody is now dying," thought the little girl — for her old grandmother, the only person who had ever loved her, and who was now dead, had told her, that when a star falls, it is a sign that a soul is going up to heaven. She again rubbed a match upon the wall, and it was again light all round; and in the brightness stood her old grandmother, clear and shining like a spirit, yet looking so mild and loving.

"Grandmother," cried the little one, "oh! take me with you! I know you will go away when the match goes out — you will vanish like the warm stove, and the delicious roast goose, and the fine, large Christmas-tree?" And she made haste to rub the whole bundle of matches, for she wished to hold her grandmother fast. And the matches gave a light that was brighter than noonday. Her grandmother had never appeared so beautiful nor so large.

She took the little girl in her arms, and both flew upwards, all radiant and joyful, far-far above mortal ken — where there was neither cold, nor hunger, nor care to be found; for it was to the land of the blessed that they had flown.

But, in the cold dawn, the poor girl might be seen leaning against the wall, with red cheeks and smiling mouth: she had been frozen on the last night of the old year. The new year's sun shone upon the little corpse.

The child sat in the stiffness of death, still holding the matches, one bundle of which was burned.

People said: "She tried to warm herself." Nobody dreamed of the fine things she had seen, nor in what splendour she had entered upon the joys of the new year, together with her grandmother.

goose reached her, <sup>001</sup> roast goose and the, <sup>001</sup> roaming through the streets, <sup>001</sup> rising higher and higher, <sup>001</sup> ringlets over her shoulders, <sup>001</sup> right through it into, <sup>001</sup> right over to the, <sup>001</sup> right into the room, <sup>001</sup> right before a great, <sup>001</sup> rich merchant s last, <sup>001</sup> rich merchant s home, <sup>001</sup> returns to the god, <sup>001</sup> rents had been stopped, <sup>001</sup> remains of the burned, <sup>001</sup> remained but the thick, <sup>001</sup> remained but the little, reached both her hands, <sup>001</sup> rattling by terribly fast, <sup>001</sup> rattled by terribly fast, <sup>001</sup> rather a magic taper, <sup>001</sup> ranged shining china dishes, <sup>001</sup> ran across the street, <sup>001</sup> quite sure of keeping, <sup>001</sup> quite clearly and distinctly, <sup>001</sup> quite benumbed with cold, <sup>001</sup> quite an illumination for, <sup>001</sup> quickly struck the whole, <sup>001</sup> quickly all the remaining, <sup>001</sup> quickly against the wall, <sup>001</sup> pull one out of, <sup>001</sup> prunes was steaming on, to warm herself, <sup>005</sup> she had seen through the, <sup>005</sup> rub it against the wall, <sup>005</sup> one had given her a, <sup>005</sup> on the last evening of, <sup>005</sup> of them in her hand, <sup>005</sup> matches burned with such a, <sup>005</sup> knife and fork in its, <sup>005</sup> had seen through the glass, <sup>005</sup> death on the last evening, <sup>005</sup> and who was now dead, <sup>005</sup> and waddled along the floor, <sup>005</sup> and the matches burned with, <sup>004</sup> you will vanish like the, <sup>004</sup> with red cheeks and smiling, <sup>004</sup> will vanish like the warm, <sup>004</sup> which projected beyond the other, <sup>004</sup> when he had children of, <sup>004</sup> were red and blue with, <sup>004</sup> was not to be found, <sup>004</sup> wall it became transparent like, <sup>004</sup> vanish like the warm stove, <sup>004</sup> to the little girl as, <sup>004</sup> through the glass door at, <sup>004</sup> the wall it became transparent, <sup>004</sup> the new year s sun, <sup>004</sup> the little girl as if, <sup>004</sup> the light fell upon the, <sup>004</sup> the glass door at the, <sup>004</sup> such as she had seen, <sup>004</sup> stuffed with apples and prunes, <sup>004</sup> shivering with cold and hunger, <sup>004</sup> she were sitting before a, <sup>004</sup> she was sitting under a, <sup>004</sup> she saw them now as, <sup>004</sup> she rubbed another match against, <sup>004</sup> she had sold no matches, <sup>004</sup> seen through the glass door, <sup>004</sup> seemed to the little girl, <sup>004</sup> rubbed another match against the, <sup>004</sup> red cheeks and smiling mouth, <sup>004</sup> red and blue with the, <sup>004</sup> really seemed to the little, <sup>004</sup> person who had loved her, <sup>004</sup> only person who had loved, <sup>004</sup> one out of the bundle, <sup>004</sup> one of which projected beyond, <sup>004</sup> one of them fell down, <sup>004</sup> of which projected beyond the, <sup>004</sup> now some one is dying, <sup>004</sup> little girl as if she, <sup>004</sup> light fell upon the wall, <sup>004</sup> it really seemed to the, <sup>004</sup> it became transparent like a, <sup>004</sup> he had children of his, <sup>004</sup> had children of his own, <sup>004</sup> had bought anything of her, <sup>004</sup> glass door at the rich, <sup>004</sup> for she had not sold, <sup>004</sup> for it was new year, <sup>004</sup> for a cradle when he, <sup>004</sup> door at the rich merchant, <sup>004</sup> burned match in her hand, <sup>004</sup> as she held her hands, <sup>004</sup> as she had seen in, <sup>004</sup> and where the light fell, <sup>004</sup> and rub it against the, <sup>004</sup> and no one had given, <sup>004</sup> and fork in its breast, <sup>004</sup> and blue with the cold, <sup>003</sup> with a knife and fork, <sup>003</sup> which hung in pretty curls, <sup>003</sup> when the match goes out, <sup>003</sup> were sitting before a large, <sup>003</sup> were quite red and blue, <sup>003</sup> was walking through the streets, <sup>003</sup> upon the wall it became, <sup>003</sup> through which the wind whistled, <sup>003</sup> through it into the room, <sup>003</sup> they were very large slippers, <sup>003</sup> then she was sitting under, <sup>003</sup> them now as stars in, <sup>003</sup> the snowflakes fell on her, <sup>003</sup> the rich merchant s house, <sup>003</sup> the last night of the, <sup>003</sup> the child stretched out her, <sup>003</sup> that it became brighter than, <sup>003</sup> stopped with straw and rags, <sup>003</sup> snowflakes fell on her long, <sup>003</sup> snow white cloth was spread, <sup>003</sup> sitting before a large iron, <sup>003</sup> she had seen in the, <sup>003</sup> she had only the remains, <sup>003</sup> she had not sold any, <sup>003</sup> she dared not go home, <sup>003</sup> she could see through it, <sup>003</sup> seen in the shop windows, <sup>003</sup> saw them now as stars, <sup>003</sup> rubbed the whole bundle of, <sup>003</sup> red and blue with cold, <sup>003</sup> quite red and blue with, <sup>003</sup> only the remains of the, <sup>003</sup> only person who had ever, <sup>003</sup> one she had seen through, <sup>003</sup> on the last night of, <sup>003</sup> not dare to go home, <sup>003</sup> night of the old year, <sup>003</sup> last night of the old, <sup>003</sup> jumped down from the dish, <sup>003</sup> i know you will go, <sup>003</sup> home she had slippers on, <sup>003</sup> her little hands were almost, <sup>003</sup> her father would beat her, <sup>003</sup> had seen in the shop, <sup>003</sup> had only the remains of, <sup>003</sup> had not sold any matches, <sup>003</sup> had been stopped with straw, <sup>003</sup> go away when the match, <sup>003</sup> girl with red cheeks and, <sup>003</sup> for she had sold no, <sup>003</sup> fell upon the wall it, <sup>003</sup> did not dare to go, <sup>003</sup> could see through it into, <sup>003</sup> could see into the room, <sup>003</sup> bundle of them in her, <sup>003</sup> bought anything of her the, <sup>003</sup> before a large iron stove, <sup>003</sup> before a great iron stove, <sup>003</sup> been stopped with straw and, <sup>003</sup> became transparent like a veil, <sup>003</sup> anything of her the whole, <sup>003</sup> a star falls a soul, <sup>003</sup> a snow white cloth was, <sup>003</sup> a knife and fork in, <sup>003</sup> a great iron stove with, <sup>003</sup> a bundle of them in, <sup>002</sup> you will go away when, <sup>002</sup> yet another match against the, <sup>002</sup> year s sun rose upon, <sup>002</sup> would use it for a, <sup>002</sup> with such a glow that, <sup>002</sup> with polished brass feet and, <sup>002</sup> with knife and fork still, <sup>002</sup> with knife and fork in, <sup>002</sup> with her little bare feet, <sup>002</sup> with cold and hunger she, <sup>002</sup> with bright brass feet and, <sup>002</sup> with apples and dried plums, <sup>002</sup> wished to hold her grandmother, <sup>002</sup> will go away when the, <sup>002</sup> who ran off with it, <sup>002</sup> who had ever been kind, <sup>002</sup> which were quite red and, <sup>002</sup> where the light fell upon, <sup>002</sup> where the light fell on, <sup>002</sup> when the match is burned, <sup>002</sup> when the match burns out, <sup>002</sup> when the light fell upon, <sup>002</sup> when she left home she, <sup>002</sup> when she left her home, <sup>002</sup> when she held her hand, <sup>002</sup> when a star fell down, <sup>002</sup> when a star falls a, <sup>002</sup> what was more delightful still, <sup>002</sup> what beautiful visions she had, <sup>002</sup> what beautiful things she had, <sup>002</sup> were stopped up with straw, <sup>002</sup> were nearly frozen with cold, <sup>002</sup> were much too large for, <sup>002</sup> were burning on the green, <sup>002</sup> were almost dead with cold, <sup>002</sup> went along the street a, <sup>002</sup> was spread upon the table, <sup>002</sup> was sitting under the most, <sup>002</sup> was sitting under a beautiful, <sup>002</sup> was rubbed against the wall, <sup>002</sup> was cold enough at home, <sup>002</sup> was a wonderful little light, <sup>002</sup> warm her fingers by it, <sup>002</sup> very well as a cradle, <sup>002</sup> vanish like the warm fire, <sup>002</sup> use it very well as, <sup>002</sup> use it for a cradle, <sup>002</sup> up with straw and rags, <sup>002</sup> up to the poor child, <sup>002</sup> up there was neither cold, <sup>002</sup> under the most magnificent christmas, <sup>002</sup> under a most beautiful christmas, <sup>002</sup> under a beautiful christmas tree, <sup>002</sup> trembling with cold and hunger, <sup>002</sup> tree rose higher and higher, <sup>002</sup> transparent like a thin veil, <sup>002</sup> told her that when a, <sup>002</sup> to keep her grandmother with, <sup>002</sup> to hold her grandmother fast, <sup>002</sup> through the glass doors at, <sup>002</sup> thousands of candles burned upon, <sup>002</sup> though the largest holes had, <sup>002</sup> though she were sitting before, <sup>002</sup> they were very big slippers, <sup>002</sup> they were much too large, <sup>002</sup> they had nothing over them, <sup>002</sup> they belonged to her mother, <sup>002</sup> there went along the street, <sup>002</sup> them but a roof through, <sup>002</sup> the windows lights were shining, <sup>002</sup> the table a snow white, <sup>002</sup> the street a poor little, <sup>002</sup> the splendid new year s, <sup>002</sup> the snow flakes covered her, <sup>002</sup> the slippers was not to, <sup>002</sup> the remains of the burnt, <sup>002</sup> the remaining matches in the, <sup>002</sup> the old grandmother stood clear, <sup>002</sup> the most magnificent christmas tree, <sup>002</sup> the middle of the day, <sup>002</sup> the match then went out, <sup>002</sup> the match is burned out, <sup>002</sup> the little maiden stretched out, <sup>002</sup> the little girl with red, <sup>002</sup> the little girl went with, <sup>002</sup> the little flame went out, <sup>002</sup> the lights of the christmas, <sup>002</sup> the light fell on the, <sup>002</sup> the largest holes had been, <sup>002</sup> the joys of a new, <sup>002</sup> the goose jumped from the, <sup>002</sup> the goose jumped down from, <sup>002</sup> the goose hopped down from, <sup>002</sup> the glass doors at the, <sup>002</sup> the dish and waddled along, <sup>002</sup> the cold and the darkness, <sup>002</sup> the cold and gloom a, <sup>002</sup> the christmas tree rose higher, <sup>002</sup> the christmas lights mounted higher, <sup>002</sup> the burnt out match in, <sup>002</sup> the burnt match in her, <sup>002</sup> the burned match in her, <sup>002</sup> that whenever a star falls, <sup>002</sup> that when a star fell, <sup>002</sup> that when a star falls, <sup>002</sup> that were red and blue, <sup>002</sup> that it was brighter than, <sup>002</sup> than in the middle of, <sup>002</sup> table a snow white cloth, <sup>002</sup> sun rose upon a little, <sup>002</sup> such a glow that it, <sup>002</sup> such a brilliant light that, <sup>002</sup> stuffed with apples and dried, <sup>002</sup> struck yet another match against, <sup>002</sup> struck another match against the, <sup>002</sup> stretched out her hands towards, <sup>002</sup> street a poor little girl, <sup>002</sup> stove with polished brass feet, <sup>002</sup> stopped up with straw and, <sup>002</sup> stood a shining dinner service, <sup>002</sup> star fell down a soul, <sup>002</sup> <sup>002</sup> remaining matches in the bundle, <sup>002</sup> projected a little beyond the, <sup>002</sup> pretty curls over her neck, <sup>002</sup> pictures like those in the, <sup>002</sup> person who had ever been, <sup>002</sup> over them but a roof, <sup>002</sup> out of the bundle and, <sup>002</sup> out match in her hand, <sup>002</sup> out her hands towards them, <sup>002</sup> one at home, <sup>002</sup> it was a wonderful little, <sup>002</sup> it was a wonderful light, <sup>002</sup> it very well as a, <sup>002</sup> it stood a shining dinner, <sup>002</sup> it gave out a warm, <sup>002</sup> in the middle of the, <sup>002</sup> in the cold and gloom, <sup>002</sup> in pretty curls over her, <sup>002</sup> in brightness and joy above, <sup>002</sup> in an old apron she, <sup>002</sup> in all the windows lights, <sup>002</sup> if she were sitting before, <sup>002</sup> if she sat before a, <sup>002</sup> if she might only draw, <sup>002</sup> how it sputtered and things she had seen, <sup>002</sup> away when the match burns, <sup>002</sup> at last she drew one, <sup>002</sup> as though she were sitting, <sup>002</sup> as she had never looked, <sup>002</sup> as if she were sitting, <sup>002</sup> as if she sat before, <sup>002</sup> and when the light fell, <sup>002</sup> and what was still more, <sup>002</sup> and what was more delightful, <sup>002</sup> twinkling stars, <sup>001</sup> were not of much use, <sup>001</sup> were nearly dead with cold, <sup>001</sup> were looking down upon her, <sup>001</sup> were left many through which, <sup>001</sup> were in that place where, <sup>001</sup> were glimmering through every window, <sup>001</sup> were driving at a fearful, <sup>001</sup> were celebrating their new year, <sup>001</sup> were almost numbed with cold, <sup>001</sup> were almost benumbed with the, <sup>001</sup> went with her little naked, <sup>001</sup> went with her bare feet, <sup>001</sup> went out and nothing but, <sup>001</sup> was under a most beautiful, <sup>001</sup> was to the land of, <sup>001</sup> was this of which she, <sup>001</sup> was the only one who, <sup>001</sup> was the little girl walking, <sup>001</sup> was the last evening of, <sup>001</sup> was the good of that, <sup>001</sup> was such a delicious smell, <sup>001</sup> was struck against the wall, <sup>001</sup> was stretching out her feet, <sup>001</sup> was still wandering about the, <sup>001</sup> was still more splendid to, <sup>001</sup> was still more capital to, <sup>001</sup> was still larger and more, <sup>001</sup> through the streets, <sup>001</sup> was quite an illumination for, <sup>001</sup> was pounced upon by a, <sup>001</sup> was pleasanter of all to, <sup>001</sup> was picked up by a, <sup>001</sup> was of this that she, <sup>001</sup> was nowhere to be found, <sup>001</sup> was nothing to be seen, <sup>001</sup> was not of much use, <sup>001</sup> was much larger and much, <sup>001</sup> was much bigger and more, <sup>001</sup> was left to her but, <sup>001</sup> was left sitting with the, <sup>001</sup> was late on a bitterly, <sup>001</sup> was just as cold at, <sup>001</sup> was hungry and <sup>001</sup> was a savoury smell of, <sup>001</sup> was a most delicious odour, <sup>001</sup> was a glorious smell of, <sup>001</sup> was a beautiful china dinner, <sup>001</sup> warm her hands at it, <sup>001</sup> warm her fingers over the, <sup>001</sup> warm fire in the stove, <sup>001</sup> wanted to be quite sure, <sup>001</sup> wandering in the dark cold, <sup>001</sup> wall to warm her fingers, <sup>001</sup> wall became transparent like a, <sup>001</sup> wall became transparent as a, <sup>001</sup> wall and warm her hands, <sup>001</sup> walking about on her naked, <sup>001</sup> walked on with her tiny, <sup>001</sup> walked on her naked feet, <sup>001</sup> waddled along the ground with, <sup>001</sup> waddled along the floor with, <sup>001</sup> waddled along the floor straight, <sup>001</sup> waddled along the floor right, <sup>001</sup> very fast across the road, <sup>001</sup> vanish when the match goes, <sup>001</sup> upon the joys of the, <sup>001</sup> upon the joys of a, <sup>001</sup> upon the glories of the, <sup>001</sup> upon it was a splendid, <sup>001</sup> upon it stood a shining, <sup>001</sup> upon her long yellow hair, <sup>001</sup> upon a little pathetic figure, <sup>001</sup> up to the poor little, <sup>001</sup> up to the poor girl, <sup>001</sup> up the biggest cracks with, <sup>001</sup> up on the little corpse, <sup>001</sup> up her little feet under, <sup>001</sup> up her feet under her, <sup>001</sup> up by a little boy, <sup>001</sup> under the most beautiful christmas, <sup>001</sup> under her her little feet, <sup>001</sup> under a lovely christmas tree, <sup>001</sup> uncomfortable darkness a poor little, <sup>001</sup> two carriages were rattling by, <sup>001</sup> two carriages were passing terribly, <sup>001</sup> two carriages were passing at, <sup>001</sup> two carriages that were rolling, <sup>001</sup> two carriages that rolled by, <sup>001</sup> two carriages had rattled by, <sup>001</sup> true she had on a, <sup>001</sup> trimmed than the one she, <sup>001</sup> train of fire after it, <sup>001</sup> too large for her feet, <sup>001</sup> told her when a star, <sup>001</sup> told her that whenever a, <sup>001</sup> told by her old grandmother, <sup>001</sup> to the poor little girl, <sup>001</sup> to the new year s, <sup>001</sup> to the little maiden as, <sup>001</sup> to the land of the, <sup>001</sup> to the god who gave, <sup>001</sup> to take one out of, <sup>001</sup> to rub the whole bundle, <sup>001</sup> to her the savory smell, <sup>001</sup> to her but the thick, <sup>001</sup> to her as though she, <sup>001</sup> to go on with her, <sup>001</sup> to go home she did, <sup>001</sup> to go farther and farther, <sup>001</sup> to get out of the, <sup>001</sup> to enter upon the joys, <sup>001</sup> to be seen but the, <sup>001</sup> to be quite sure of, <sup>001</sup> to be looking down upon, <sup>001</sup> to avoid two carriages that, <sup>001</sup> time she was sitting under, <sup>001</sup> time it was her grandmother, <sup>001</sup> till they were in that, <sup>001</sup> till she saw that they, <sup>001</sup> till it came up to, <sup>001</sup> through which the cold wind, <sup>001</sup> through this the wind whistled, <sup>001</sup> through the glass doors of, <sup>001</sup> through the glass door in, <sup>001</sup> through it into a room, <sup>001</sup> through it although they stuffed, <sup>001</sup> thousands of lights were burning, <sup>001</sup> thousands of lighted candles gleamed, <sup>001</sup> thousands of candles burned on, <sup>001</sup> thousand tapers burned on its, <sup>001</sup> thought she was sitting right, <sup>001</sup> thought not of her own, <sup>001</sup> thought not of her beauty, <sup>001</sup> thought it would do capitably, <sup>001</sup> thought he could use it, <sup>001</sup> though the largest rents had, <sup>001</sup> though the largest cracks were, <sup>001</sup> though the biggest cracks had, <sup>001</sup> thou wilt vanish like the, <sup>001</sup> thou wilt leave me as, <sup>001</sup> those that you see in, <sup>001</sup> those in the printshops looked, <sup>001</sup> those in the print shops, <sup>001</sup> this time she was sitting, <sup>001</sup> this time it was her, <sup>001</sup> this of which she thought, <sup>001</sup> this cold and uncomfortable darkness, <sup>001</sup> this cold and darkness there, <sup>001</sup> thinking it might serve him, <sup>001</sup> thing lost them as she, <sup>001</sup> they were the bright stars, <sup>001</sup> they were red and blue, <sup>001</sup> they were only the twinkling, <sup>001</sup> they were not of much, <sup>001</sup> they were not much good, <sup>001</sup> they were in that place, <sup>001</sup> they stuffed up the biggest, <sup>001</sup> they soared in a halo, <sup>001</sup> they only had the roof, <sup>001</sup> they now looked like stars, <sup>001</sup> they had stopped the largest, <sup>001</sup> they had only the roof, <sup>001</sup> they had only the house, <sup>001</sup> they had last been worn, <sup>001</sup> they had hitherto been used, <sup>001</sup> they flew away in brightness, <sup>001</sup> so long to, <sup>001</sup> she did not think of, <sup>001</sup> she dared not return home, <sup>001</sup> she d not been able, <sup>001</sup> she d had slippers on, <sup>001</sup> she crept along trembling with, <sup>001</sup> she could see right through, <sup>001</sup> she could see right into, <sup>001</sup> she could see only the, <sup>001</sup> she could only take one, <sup>001</sup> she could only draw one, <sup>001</sup> she could not warm them, <sup>001</sup> she could not forget that, <sup>001</sup> she carried several packages of, <sup>001</sup> she carried one of them, <sup>001</sup> she carried a small bundle, <sup>001</sup> she carried a bundle also, <sup>001</sup> she beheld them beaming like, <sup>001</sup> she and her grandmother were, <sup>001</sup> she again to,<sup>001</sup> one slipper was not to,<sup>001</sup> one slipper she d not,<sup>001</sup> one she had seen when,<sup>001</sup> one projected a little beyond,<sup>001</sup> one of which projected farther,<sup>001</sup> one of them fell and,<sup>001</sup> one of the slippers could,<sup>001</sup> one of the shoes could,<sup>001</sup> one little match would do,<sup>001</sup> one little match might warm,<sup>001</sup> one little match from her,<sup>001</sup> one knew what beautiful visions,<sup>001</sup> one knew of the sweet,<sup>001</sup> one imagined what sweet visions,<sup>001</sup> of wax tapers lighted up,<sup>001</sup> of two carriages that rolled,<sup>001</sup> of this that she thought,<sup>001</sup> of them the live long,<sup>001</sup> of them quite burnt out,<sup>001</sup> of them flew in brightness,<sup>001</sup> of them fell and made,<sup>001</sup> of the way of two,<sup>001</sup> of the sweet visions she,<sup>001</sup> of the splendor in which,<sup>001</sup> of the more,<sup>001</sup> much bigger and more beautifully,<sup>001</sup> much as a bunch all,<sup>001</sup> motionless she sat there with,<sup>001</sup> mother had used till then,<sup>001</sup> mother had used them till,<sup>001</sup> mother had used them last,<sup>001</sup> most terribly cold it was,<sup>001</sup> most delicious odour of roast,<sup>001</sup> morning rose up on the,<sup>001</sup> morning light the poor little,<sup>001</sup> more prettily trimmed than the,<sup>001</sup> more ornamented than the one,<sup>001</sup> more in her tattered apron,<sup>001</sup> more decorated than the one,<sup>001</sup> more decorated than that she,<sup>001</sup> more capital to behold was,<sup>001</sup> more beautifully decorated than the,<sup>001</sup> more beautiful than the one,<sup>001</sup> moment the light of the,<sup>001</sup> might serve him as a,<sup>001</sup> might only draw one out,<sup>001</sup> might only draw it from,<sup>001</sup> might do her some good,<sup>001</sup> might do her good if,<sup>001</sup> might be seen leaning against,<sup>001</sup> might afford her a world,<sup>001</sup> merchant s house this very,<sup>001</sup> me as soon as the,<sup>001</sup> matches quickly against the wall,<sup>001</sup> matches or got a single,<sup>001</sup> matches of which one bundle,<sup>001</sup> matches made it as bright,<sup>001</sup> matches in her old apron,<sup>001</sup> matches gave such a brilliant,<sup>001</sup> matches gave a light that,<sup>001</sup> match would do some good,<sup>001</sup> match went out and nothing,<sup>001</sup> match was struck against the,<sup>001</sup> match was rubbed against the,<sup>001</sup> match might do some good,<sup>001</sup> match might do her some,<sup>001</sup> match might afford her a,<sup>001</sup> match from her bundle would,<sup>001</sup> match again on the wall,<sup>001</sup> many through which the cold,<sup>001</sup> many more in her tattered,<sup>001</sup> many chinks in the roof,<sup>001</sup> maiden walked on with her,<sup>001</sup> maiden stretched out her hands,<sup>001</sup> maiden stretched out her feet,<sup>001</sup> maiden as though she were,<sup>001</sup> maid lost them as she,<sup>001</sup> made it as bright as,<sup>001</sup> made haste to rub the,<sup>001</sup> made a bright streak of,<sup>001</sup> lustre there stood the old,<sup>001</sup> luster stood the old grandmother,<sup>001</sup> lost them running across the,<sup>001</sup> lost them in running across,<sup>001</sup> lost them as she slipped,<sup>001</sup> lost them as she scuffed,<sup>001</sup> lost them as she hurried,<sup>001</sup> looking the very picture of,<sup>001</sup> looking so mild and loving,<sup>001</sup> looking so gentle and happy,<sup>001</sup> looked the picture of misery,<sup>001</sup> looked so tall and stately,<sup>001</sup> looked so grand and beautiful,<sup>001</sup> looked so big or so,<sup>001</sup> looked like stars in the,<sup>001</sup> looked down from the tree,<sup>001</sup> long train of fire after,<sup>001</sup> long to keep her grandmother,<sup>001</sup> little thing lost them as,<sup>001</sup> little match would do some,<sup>001</sup> little match might warm her,<sup>001</sup> little match from her bundle,<sup>001</sup> little maiden walked on with,<sup>001</sup> little maiden as though she,<sup>001</sup> little maid lost them as,<sup>001</sup> little hands were quite benumbed,<sup>001</sup> little hands were almost numbed,<sup>001</sup> little hands were almost dead,<sup>001</sup> little hands were almost benumbed,<sup>001</sup> little half burned match in,<sup>001</sup> little girl was wandering in,<sup>001</sup> little girl walking about on,<sup>001</sup> little girl walked on her,<sup>001</sup> little girl up in her,<sup>001</sup> little girl thought she was,<sup>001</sup> little girl stretched out both,<sup>001</sup> little girl stretched her feet,<sup>001</sup> little girl stretched forth her,<sup>001</sup> little girl stretched both her,<sup>001</sup> little girl sat cold and,<sup>001</sup> little girl s feet when,<sup>001</sup> little girl reached both her,<sup>001</sup> little girl ran across the,<sup>001</sup> little girl now walked on,<sup>001</sup> little girl lost them in,<sup>001</sup> little girl had to go,<sup>001</sup> little girl had lost them,<sup>001</sup> little girl had already stretched,<sup>001</sup> little girl fancied that she,<sup>001</sup> little girl could see into,<sup>001</sup> little feet she had drawn,<sup>001</sup> little feet drawn up under,<sup>001</sup> little feet close under her,<sup>001</sup> little creature was hungry and,<sup>001</sup> little creature stretched out her,<sup>001</sup> little creature lost them as,<sup>001</sup> little candle when she held,<sup>001</sup> little burned match in her,<sup>001</sup> little body still sitting with,<sup>001</sup> little beyond the next one,<sup>001</sup> like those that you see,<sup>001</sup> like those in the printshops,<sup>001</sup> like those in the print,<sup>001</sup> like the warm fire in,<sup>001</sup> like the splendid new year,<sup>001</sup> like the magnificent christmas tree,<sup>001</sup> like the delicious roast goose,<sup>001</sup> like the beautiful large christmas,<sup>001</sup> like stars in the sky,<sup>001</sup> like a little candle when,<sup>001</sup> lights were streaming from all,<sup>001</sup> lights were shining in all,<sup>001</sup> lights were shining from every,<sup>001</sup> lights were glimmering through every,<sup>001</sup> lights were burning on the,<sup>001</sup> lights streaming behind it like,<sup>001</sup> lights kept rising higher and,<sup>001</sup> lights gleamed in every window,<sup>001</sup> lighted up the green branches,<sup>001</sup> lighted candles gleamed upon its,<sup>001</sup> lighted all the remaining matches,<sup>001</sup> light the poor little girl,<sup>001</sup> light that was brighter than,<sup>001</sup> light that it was brighter,<sup>001</sup> light that it became brighter,<sup>001</sup> light seemed to go farther,<sup>001</sup> light of the matches made,<sup>001</sup> light of the match was,<sup>001</sup>

there was a wonderful smell of,<sup>001</sup> there was a splendid fire blazing,<sup>001</sup> there was a savoury smell of,<sup>001</sup> there was a most delicious odour,<sup>001</sup> there was a glorious smell of,<sup>001</sup> there the wall became transparent like,<sup>001</sup> there she was sitting under the,<sup>001</sup> there came to her the savory,<sup>001</sup> there appeared before her the dear,<sup>001</sup> then the little flame went out,<sup>001</sup> then she was sitting under the,<sup>001</sup> them now as stars in the,<sup>001</sup> them now as bright stars in,<sup>001</sup> them in running across the street,<sup>001</sup> them flew in brightness and joy,<sup>001</sup> them fell and made a bright,<sup>001</sup> them beaming like stars in heaven,<sup>001</sup> them as she slipped across the,<sup>001</sup> them as she scuffled away across,<sup>001</sup> them as she hurried across the,<sup>001</sup> them and the wind whistled through,<sup>001</sup>
the wall to warm her fingers,<sup>001</sup> the wall became transparent like a,<sup>001</sup> the wall became transparent as a,<sup>001</sup> the wall and warm her hands,<sup>001</sup> the table was spread with a,<sup>001</sup> the table was spread a snow,<sup>001</sup>
the remains of the burnt out,<sup>001</sup> the remains of the burnt match,<sup>001</sup> the remains of the burned match,<sup>001</sup> the printshops looked down at her,<sup>001</sup> the print shops looked down upon,<sup>001</sup>

 and there was such a delicious,<sup>001</sup> and there was only the thick,<sup>001</sup> and there was nothing to be,<sup>001</sup> and there was a wonderful smell,<sup>001</sup> and there was a savoury smell,<sup>001</sup> and there was a most delicious,<sup>001</sup> and there was a glorious smell,<sup>001</sup> and there came to her the,<sup>001</sup> and then above was neither cold,<sup>001</sup> and the wind whistled through it,<sup>001</sup> and the wind came howling through,<sup>001</sup> and the savour of roast goose,<sup>001</sup> and the roast goose was steaming,<sup>001</sup> and the poor little thing lost,<sup>001</sup> and the poor little girl lost,<sup>001</sup> and the other was pounced upon,<sup>001</sup> and the other was picked up,<sup>001</sup> and the other a boy ran,<sup>001</sup> and the matches gave such a,<sup>001</sup> and the matches gave a light,<sup>001</sup> and the great glorious christmas tree,<sup>001</sup> and the dark evening was setting,<sup>001</sup> and the beautiful big christmas tree,<sup>001</sup> and struck it against the wall,<sup>001</sup> and strike it on the wall,<sup>001</sup> and stark sat the child there,<sup>001</sup> and so the little girl walked,<sup>001</sup> and she was left sitting with,<sup>001</sup> and she rubbed the whole bundle,<sup>001</sup>
 and she could see into the,<sup>001</sup> and she carried a bundle also,<sup>001</sup> and sent forth a most savory,<sup>001</sup> and prunes was steaming on it,<sup>001</sup> and perhaps her father would beat,<sup>001</sup> and on it stood a shining,<sup>001</sup>

 and it was again light all,<sup>001</sup> and it waddled across the floor,<sup>001</sup> and it smelt so deliciously of,<sup>001</sup> and in what splendor she had,<sup>001</sup> and in what glory she had,<sup>001</sup> and in the lustre there stood,<sup>001</sup> and in the glow the old,<sup>001</sup> and in the brightness there appeared,<sup>001</sup> and in the brightness the old,<sup>001</sup> and in the brightness stood her,<sup>001</sup> and in that moment the light,<sup>001</sup> and in its luster stood the,<sup>001</sup>

what a halo she had entered with,<sup>001</sup> what a beautiful thing she had seen,<sup>001</sup> were sitting before a great iron stove,<sup>001</sup> were red and blue with the cold,<sup>001</sup> were quite red and blue from cold,<sup>001</sup> were not of much use to her,<sup>001</sup> were much too large for her feet,<sup>001</sup> were left many through which the cold,<sup>001</sup> were in that place where neither cold,<sup>001</sup> were celebrating their new year s festival,<sup>001</sup>
was under a most beautiful christmas tree,<sup>001</sup> was to the land of the blessed,<sup>001</sup> was the only one who had been,<sup>001</sup> was the little girl walking about on,<sup>001</sup> was the last evening of the year,<sup>001</sup> was such a delicious smell of roast,<sup>001</sup> was stretching out her feet to warm,<sup>001</sup> was still more capital to behold was,<sup>001</sup> was still larger and more decorated than,<sup>001</sup> was steaming famously with its stuffing of,<sup>001</sup>
was sitting under a lovely christmas tree,<sup>001</sup> was sitting right before a great iron,<sup>001</sup> was sitting in front of a big,<sup>001</sup> was running very fast across the road,<sup>001</sup> was running across the street to avoid,<sup>001</sup>
was brighter than in the middle of,<sup>001</sup> was almost as cold at home as,<sup>001</sup> was almost as cold as the street,<sup>001</sup> was a wonderful smell of roast goose,<sup>001</sup> was a splendid fire blazing in it,<sup>001</sup> was a savoury smell of roast goose,<sup>001</sup> was a most delicious odour of roast,<sup>001</sup> was a glorious smell of roast goose,<sup>001</sup> wanted to be quite sure of keeping,<sup>001</sup> walking about on her naked little feet,<sup>001</sup> walked on with her tiny naked feet,<sup>001</sup> waddled along the ground with a knife,<sup>001</sup> waddled along the floor with a knife,<sup>001</sup> waddled along the floor straight to the,<sup>001</sup> waddled along the floor right up to,<sup>001</sup>
upon the glories of the new year,<sup>001</sup> upon it was a splendid porcelain service,<sup>001</sup> upon it stood a shining dinner service,<sup>001</sup> up the biggest cracks with rags and,<sup>001</sup> two carriages were rattling by terribly fast,<sup>001</sup> two carriages were passing at a terrible,<sup>001</sup> two carriages that were rolling rapidly by,<sup>001</sup> two carriages that rolled by dreadfully fast,<sup>001</sup> two carriages had rattled by terribly fast,<sup>001</sup> true she had on a pair of,<sup>001</sup> trimmed than the one she had seen,<sup>001</sup> trembling with cold and hunger crept she,<sup>001</sup> told her when a star falls a,<sup>001</sup> told her that whenever a star falls,<sup>001</sup> to the little maiden as though she,<sup>001</sup>
to avoid two carriages that were rolling,<sup>001</sup> time she was sitting under a lovely,<sup>001</sup> time it was her grandmother who appeared,<sup>001</sup> till they were in that place where,<sup>001</sup> till she saw that they were only,<sup>001</sup> till it came up to the poor,<sup>001</sup> through which the wind whistled even though,<sup>001</sup> through which the cold wind could whistle,<sup>001</sup> through the glass doors of the rich,<sup>001</sup> through the glass door in the rich,<sup>001</sup> through it although they stuffed up the,<sup>001</sup> thousands of lights were burning on the,<sup>001</sup> thousands of lighted candles gleamed upon its,<sup>001</sup> thousands of candles burned on the green,<sup>001</sup> thousand tapers burned on its green branches,<sup>001</sup> thought she was sitting right before a,<sup>001</sup> thought not of her beauty nor of,<sup>001</sup> thought it would do capially for a,<sup>001</sup> thought he could use it very well,<sup>001</sup> though the largest rents had been stopped,<sup>001</sup> though the largest cracks were stopped up,<sup>001</sup> though the biggest cracks had been stuffed,<sup>001</sup> thou wilt vanish like the warm fire,<sup>001</sup> thou wilt leave me as soon as,<sup>001</sup>
this cold and uncomfortable darkness a poor,<sup>001</sup> this cold and darkness there went along,<sup>001</sup> thinking it might serve him as a,<sup>001</sup> thing lost them as she scuffled away,<sup>001</sup> they were red and blue with cold,<sup>001</sup>
they were not of much use to,<sup>001</sup> they were in that place where neither,<sup>001</sup> they stuffed up the biggest cracks with,<sup>001</sup> they soared in a halo of light,<sup>001</sup> they only had the roof over them,<sup>001</sup> they now looked like stars in the,<sup>001</sup> they had stopped the largest cracks with,<sup>001</sup> they had only the roof above them,<sup>001</sup> they had only the house roof above,<sup>001</sup> they had last been worn by her,<sup>001</sup>
there were left many through which the,<sup>001</sup> there was the little girl walking about,<sup>001</sup> there was such a delicious smell of,<sup>001</sup> there was nothing to be seen but,<sup>001</sup> there was a wonderful smell of roast,<sup>001</sup> there was a splendid fire blazing in,<sup>001</sup> there was a savoury smell of roast,<sup>001</sup> there was a most delicious odour of,<sup>001</sup> there was a glorious smell of roast,<sup>001</sup> there the wall became transparent like a,<sup>001</sup> there she was sitting under the most,<sup>001</sup> there came to her the savory smell,<sup>001</sup> there appeared before her the dear old,<sup>001</sup> then she was sitting under the most,<sup>001</sup> them now as stars in the sky,<sup>001</sup>
the small stump of the burned match,<sup>001</sup> the slightest suspicion of what beautiful things,<sup>001</sup> the shoes could not be found at,<sup>001</sup> the savour of roast goose reached her,<sup>001</sup> the roof were stopped up with straw,<sup>001</sup>
the other was pounced upon by a,<sup>001</sup> the other was picked up by a,<sup>001</sup> the other had been snatched up by,<sup>001</sup> the other had been laid hold of,<sup>001</sup> the other and ran away with it,<sup>001</sup>
the other a boy ran away with,<sup>001</sup> the only person who had ever loved,<sup>001</sup> the only one who had been good,<sup>001</sup> the one which she had seen through,<sup>001</sup> the one she had seen when she,<sup>001</sup>
the one projected a little beyond the,<sup>001</sup> the new year s sun shone upon,<sup>001</sup> the new year s sun shone on,<sup>001</sup> the new year s joy and happiness,<sup>001</sup> the matches of which one bundle was,<sup>001</sup>

the christmas candles burned higher and higher,<sup>001</sup> the child stretched out her hands towards,<sup>001</sup> the child stretched out her hands to,<sup>001</sup> the child stretched out her feet to,<sup>001</sup> the child sat in the stiffness of,<sup>001</sup>
that whenever a star falls an immortal,<sup>001</sup> that whenever a star falls a soul,<sup>001</sup> that were quite red and blue from,<sup>001</sup> that were driving at a fearful rate,<sup>001</sup> that they were only the twinkling stars,<sup>001</sup> that they had hitherto been used by,<sup>001</sup> that the little maiden stretched out her,<sup>001</sup> that the little creature stretched out her,<sup>001</sup> that she wore were bundles of matches,<sup>001</sup> that she was sitting in front of,<sup>001</sup> that she had seen through the glass,<sup>001</sup> that she could see through it into,<sup>001</sup> that she could see into the room,<sup>001</sup> that noon day could scarcely have been,<sup>001</sup> that moment the light of the match,<sup>001</sup> that it would serve for a cradle,<sup>001</sup> that it would do for a cradle,<sup>001</sup> that it was brighter than in the,<sup>001</sup> that it was brighter than at noon,<sup>001</sup> that it became brighter than in the,<sup>001</sup> that her mother had used till then,<sup>001</sup> that a soul is going up to,<sup>001</sup> than the one which she had seen,<sup>001</sup> than the one she had seen when,<sup>001</sup> than that she had seen through the,<sup>001</sup>
street when two carriages were passing terribly,<sup>001</sup> street to avoid two carriages that were,<sup>001</sup> street just as two carriages were passing,<sup>001</sup> stove with shining brass knobs and a,<sup>001</sup> stove with polished brass feet and handles,<sup>001</sup> stove with polished brass feet and brass,<sup>001</sup> stove with bright brass feet and brass,<sup>001</sup> stopped the largest cracks with rags and,<sup>001</sup>
steamed famously and sent forth a most,<sup>001</sup> stark sat the child there with her,<sup>001</sup> star fell down a soul went up,<sup>001</sup> star fell down a soul mounted up,<sup>001</sup> star falls an immortal spirit returns to,<sup>001</sup>
splendour she had entered upon the joys,<sup>001</sup> splendor that it was brighter than in,<sup>001</sup> splendor she had gone into the new,<sup>001</sup> splendid fire blazing in it and warming,<sup>001</sup> spirit returns to the god who gave,<sup>001</sup> sort of slippers on when she left,<sup>001</sup> some sort of slippers on when she,<sup>001</sup> some day or other should have children,<sup>001</sup> sold no matches and could not bring,<sup>001</sup> sold any matches or got a single,<sup>001</sup> sold any matches and could not bring,<sup>001</sup> soared in a halo of light and,<sup>001</sup> so you can guess they were large,<sup>001</sup> so the poor little girl had to,<sup>001</sup> so the little maiden walked on with,<sup>001</sup>
so the little girl walked on her,<sup>001</sup> so the little girl now walked on,<sup>001</sup> so that she could see through it,<sup>001</sup> so that she could see into the,<sup>001</sup> so on the little girl went with,<sup>001</sup> so now the little girl went with,<sup>001</sup> so much as a bunch all the,<sup>001</sup> so long to keep her grandmother with,<sup>001</sup> so blessedly it burned that the little,<sup>001</sup> snowflakes fell upon her long yellow hair,<sup>001</sup> snowflakes fell on her long yellow hair,<sup>001</sup> snowflakes fell on her long flaxen hair,<sup>001</sup> snowflakes fell on her long fair hair,<sup>001</sup> snow white tablecloth was spread upon the,<sup>001</sup> snow white cloth was spread upon the,<sup>001</sup> snow flakes covered her long flaxen hair,<sup>001</sup> snow flakes covered her long fair hair,<sup>001</sup> smell of roast goose in the street,<sup>001</sup> small stump of the burned match in,<sup>001</sup> small bundle of matches in her hand,<sup>001</sup>
single match might do her some good,<sup>001</sup> single match might do her good if,<sup>001</sup> sign that a soul is going up,<sup>001</sup> shoes could not be found at all,<sup>001</sup> shining brass knobs and a brass cover,<sup>001</sup>
she was sitting under the most magnificent,<sup>001</sup> she was sitting under the most beautiful,<sup>001</sup> she was sitting under a most beautiful,<sup>001</sup> she was sitting under a lovely christmas,<sup>001</sup> she was sitting right before a great,<sup>001</sup> she was sitting in front of a,<sup>001</sup> she was running very fast across the,<sup>001</sup> she was running across the street to,<sup>001</sup> she was left sitting with the end,<sup>001</sup>
she saw the table spread with a,<sup>001</sup> she saw that they were only the,<sup>001</sup> she saw now that they were the,<sup>001</sup> she saw her quite clearly and distinctly,<sup>001</sup> she sat there with the matches in,<sup>001</sup> she sat down and drew up her,<sup>001</sup> she sat before a great polished stove,<sup>001</sup> she sat before a great iron stove,<sup>001</sup> she rubbed quickly all the remaining matches,<sup>001</sup> she rubbed a match again on the,<sup>001</sup>
she now sat under the most magnificent,<sup>001</sup> she must have tried to warm herself,<sup>001</sup> she might only draw one out of,<sup>001</sup> she might only draw it from the,<sup>001</sup> she made haste to rub the whole,<sup>001</sup> she lifted the little girl up in,<sup>001</sup> she left her own house she certainly,<sup>001</sup> she left her home she had slippers,<sup>001</sup> she held a box of them in,<sup>001</sup> she hastily struck a whole bundle of,<sup>001</sup>
she hastily rubbed the whole bundle of,<sup>001</sup> she hastily lighted all the remaining matches,<sup>001</sup> she has been trying to warm herself,<sup>001</sup> she had sold no matches and could,<sup>001</sup> she had seen when she peeped through,

<sup>001</sup> she had seen through the glass doors, <sup>001</sup> she had seen last christmas through the, <sup>001</sup> she had seen last christmas eve through, <sup>001</sup> she had only the small stump of, <sup>001</sup> she had on a pair of slippers, <sup>001</sup> she had not sold any matches or, <sup>001</sup> she had not sold any matches and, <sup>001</sup> she had no thoughts for such vanities, <sup>001</sup> she had never looked during her lifetime, <sup>001</sup> she had left her house she d, <sup>001</sup> she had gone with her old grandmother, <sup>001</sup> she had gone with her grandmother to, <sup>001</sup> she had gone into the new year, <sup>001</sup> she had gone in with her grandmother, <sup>001</sup> she had entered with her grandmother upon, <sup>001</sup> she had entered upon the joys of, <sup>001</sup> she had entered on the joys of, <sup>001</sup> she had drawn up her little feet, <sup>001</sup> she had drawn under her her little, <sup>001</sup> she had drawn her little feet under, <sup>001</sup> she had drawn close up to her, <sup>001</sup> she had certainly had some sort of, <sup>001</sup> she had been told by her old, <sup>001</sup> she had been frozen on the last, <sup>001</sup> she found a corner where one house, <sup>001</sup> she drew another match against the wall, <sup>001</sup> she did so long to keep her, <sup>001</sup> she did not think of that now, <sup>001</sup> she d not been able to find, <sup>001</sup> she crept along trembling with cold and, <sup>001</sup> she could see through it into a, <sup>001</sup> she could see right through it into, <sup>001</sup> she could see right into the room, <sup>001</sup> she could only take one from the, <sup>001</sup> she could only draw one from the, <sup>001</sup> she certainly had had slippers on when, <sup>001</sup> she carried a small bundle of matches, <sup>001</sup> she carried a number of matches in, <sup>001</sup> she carried a bundle also in her, <sup>001</sup> she beheld them beaming like stars in, <sup>001</sup> she and her grandmother were celebrating their, <sup>001</sup> she again rubbed a match upon the, <sup>001</sup> serve him as a doll s cradle, <sup>001</sup> serve for a cradle when he should, <sup>001</sup> seized the other and ran away with, <sup>001</sup> seen when she peeped through the glass, <sup>001</sup> seen through the glass doors at the, <sup>001</sup> seen through the glass door in the, <sup>001</sup> seen last christmas through the glass door, <sup>001</sup> seen last christmas eve through the glass, <sup>001</sup> seemed to her as though she were, <sup>001</sup> seemed to go farther and farther away, <sup>001</sup> seemed to be looking down upon her, <sup>001</sup> seemed really to the little maiden as, <sup>001</sup> see right through it into the room, <sup>001</sup> second match was struck against the wall, <sup>001</sup> saying that it would serve for a, <sup>001</sup> saying that it would do for a, <sup>001</sup> saying he would use it for a, <sup>001</sup> saying he could use it very well, <sup>001</sup> saw them now as stars in the, <sup>001</sup> saw them now as bright stars in, her from, <sup>001</sup> sat under the most magnificent christmas tree, <sup>001</sup> sat there with the matches in her, <sup>001</sup> sat the poor girl with red cheeks, <sup>001</sup> sat the child there with her matches, <sup>001</sup> sat down and drew up her little, <sup>001</sup> sat before a great iron stove with, <sup>001</sup> said he would use it for a, <sup>001</sup> s sun shone upon the little corpse, <sup>001</sup> s sun shone on the lifeless child, <sup>001</sup> s sun rose upon a little pathetic, <sup>001</sup> s sun rose upon a little corpse, <sup>001</sup> s morning rose up on the little, <sup>001</sup> s joy and happiness with her old, <sup>001</sup> s feet when she was running across, <sup>001</sup> s day broke on the little body, <sup>001</sup> running across the street when two carriages, <sup>001</sup> running across the street to avoid two, <sup>001</sup> rubbed the whole bundle of matches quickly, <sup>001</sup> rubbed the whole bundle of matches against, <sup>001</sup> rubbed quickly all the remaining matches in, <sup>001</sup> rubbed a match again on the wall, <sup>001</sup> rub it against the wall and warm, <sup>001</sup> rosy cheeks and with a it, <sup>001</sup> out of the bundle and rub it, <sup>001</sup> out into the street than the other, <sup>001</sup> out her hands towards them in delight, <sup>001</sup> out her feet to warm them more than the, <sup>001</sup> of what beautiful things she had seen, <sup>001</sup> of wax tapers were burning on the, <sup>001</sup> of wax tapers lighted up the green, <sup>001</sup> of two smelt so deliciously of roast goose, <sup>001</sup> it seemed to her as though she, <sup>001</sup> it seemed really to the little maiden, <sup>001</sup> it on the wall to warm her, <sup>001</sup> it might serve him as a doll, <sup>001</sup> it for a cradle when he got, <sup>001</sup> it came up to the poor little, <sup>001</sup> it came right up to the poor, <sup>001</sup> it burnt with a bright clear flame, <sup>001</sup> it burned that the little maiden stretched, <sup>001</sup> it became brighter than in the middle, <sup>001</sup> it although they stuffed up the biggest, <sup>001</sup> it against the wall and warm her, <sup>001</sup> is true she had on a pair, <sup>001</sup> iron stove with shining brass knobs and, <sup>001</sup> iron stove with polished brass feet and, <sup>001</sup> a, <sup>001</sup> in this cold and darkness there went, <sup>001</sup> in the roof were stopped up with, <sup>001</sup> in the printshops looked down at her, <sup>001</sup> in the print shops looked down upon, <sup>001</sup> in the lustre there stood the old, <sup>001</sup> in the glow the old grandmother stood, <sup>001</sup> in the corner by the house sat, <sup>001</sup> in the cold morning light the poor, <sup>001</sup> in the brightness there appeared before her, <sup>001</sup> in the brightness the old grandmother stood, <sup>001</sup> in the brightness stood her old grandmother, <sup>001</sup> in that moment the light of the, <sup>001</sup> in such pretty ringlets over her shoulders, <sup>001</sup> in running across the street when two, <sup>001</sup> in its luster stood the old grandmother, <sup>001</sup> in it and warming her so beautifully, <sup>001</sup> in her hand she carried one of, <sup>001</sup> in front of a big stove with, <sup>001</sup> in brightness and in joy so high, <sup>001</sup> in an old pinafore she had some, <sup>001</sup> in an old apron that she wore, <sup>001</sup> in an old apron she carried several,

but a roof through which the wind whistled,<sup>002</sup> burned with such a glow that it became,<sup>002</sup> brighter than in the middle of the day,<sup>002</sup> bought anything of her the whole livelong day,<sup>002</sup> as though she were sitting before a large,<sup>002</sup> and where the light fell upon the wall,<sup>002</sup> and where the light fell on the wall,<sup>002</sup> and when the light fell upon the wall,<sup>002</sup> and the matches burned with such a glow,<sup>002</sup> and she held a bundle of them in,<sup>002</sup> and she had only the remains of the,<sup>001</sup> youngster stretched out her feet to warm them,<sup>001</sup> you will vanish when the match goes out,<sup>001</sup> you will go when the match is burned,<sup>001</sup> you will go away when the match goes,<sup>001</sup> you will go away when the match burns,<sup>001</sup> you will disappear when the match is burned,<sup>001</sup> you will be gone when the match goes,<sup>001</sup> you know it was new year s eve,<sup>001</sup> you go away when the match burns out,<sup>001</sup> year s sun shone upon the little corpse,<sup>001</sup> year s sun shone on the lifeless child,<sup>001</sup> year s sun rose upon a little pathetic,<sup>001</sup> year s sun rose upon a little corpse,<sup>001</sup> year s morning rose up on the little,<sup>001</sup> year s joy and happiness with her old,<sup>001</sup> year s day broke on the little body,<sup>001</sup> would use it for a cradle when he,<sup>001</sup> would use it for a cradle some day,<sup>001</sup> would serve for a cradle when he should,<sup>001</sup> would do for a cradle when he had,<sup>001</sup> would do capially for a cradle when he,<sup>001</sup> wonderful roast goose and the beautiful big christmas,<sup>001</sup> with the ends of the burnt out matches,<sup>001</sup> with the end of the burnt out match,<sup>001</sup> with the carving knife and fork sticking in,<sup>001</sup> with such a splendor that it was brighter,<sup>001</sup> with such a brilliant light that it became,<sup>001</sup> with shining brass knobs and a brass cover,<sup>001</sup> with rosy cheeks and with a smiling mouth,<sup>001</sup> with rosy cheeks and a smile on her,<sup>001</sup> with red cheeks and a smile about her,<sup>001</sup> with polished brass feet and brass shovel and,<sup>001</sup> with knife and fork still in its breast,<sup>001</sup> with knife and fork still in her breast,<sup>001</sup> with its stuffing of apple and dried plums,<sup>001</sup> with her old grandmother into the bright new,<sup>001</sup> with her little feet drawn up under her,<sup>001</sup> with her grandmother upon the glories of the,<sup>001</sup> with her grandmother to the new year s,<sup>001</sup> with her grandmother to enter upon the joys,<sup>001</sup> with her grandmother she had entered on the,<sup>001</sup> with burnished brass feet and a brass ornament,<sup>001</sup> with bright brass feet and a brass cover,<sup>001</sup> with apples and prunes was steaming on it,<sup>001</sup> with apples and dried plums stood at one,<sup>001</sup> wind whistled through it although they stuffed up,<sup>001</sup> wind whistled even though the biggest cracks had,<sup>001</sup> wilt vanish like the warm fire in the,<sup>001</sup> wilt leave me as soon as the match,<sup>001</sup> will go when the match is burned out,<sup>001</sup> will go away when the match goes out,<sup>001</sup> will go away when the match burns out,<sup>001</sup> will disappear when the match is burned out,<sup>001</sup> will be gone when the match goes out,<sup>001</sup> whole bundle of matches quickly against the wall,<sup>001</sup> who was the only one who had been,<sup>001</sup> whistled through it although they stuffed up the,<sup>001</sup> whistled even though the biggest cracks had been,<sup>001</sup> whilst she was running very fast across the,<sup>001</sup> which were red and blue with the cold,<sup>001</sup> which the wind whistled even though the biggest,<sup>001</sup> which she had seen through the glass door,<sup>001</sup> which projected farther out into the street than,<sup>001</sup> which hung in pretty curls round her throat,<sup>001</sup> which hung in pretty curls over her neck,<sup>001</sup> which hung in pretty curls about her throat,<sup>001</sup> which fell in pretty curls over her neck,<sup>001</sup> which fell in beautiful curls around her neck,<sup>001</sup> which curled itself so beautifully about her neck,<sup>001</sup> which curled in such pretty ringlets over her,<sup>001</sup> wherever its light fell the wall became transparent,<sup>001</sup> where two carriages were rattling by terribly fast,<sup>001</sup> where two carriages had rattled by terribly fast,<sup>001</sup> where the table was the,<sup>001</sup> whenever a star falls an immortal spirit returns,<sup>001</sup> whenever a star falls a soul mounts up,<sup>001</sup> when she was running across the street to,<sup>001</sup> when she peeped through the glass doors at,<sup>001</sup> when she left her own house she certainly,<sup>001</sup> when she left her home she had slippers,<sup>001</sup> when she had left her house she d,<sup>001</sup> when he some day or other should have,<sup>001</sup> when he should have children of his own,<sup>001</sup> when a star fell down a soul went,<sup>001</sup> when a star fell down a soul mounted,<sup>001</sup> when a star falls a soul is going,<sup>001</sup> when a star falls a soul goes to,<sup>001</sup> what was still more capital to behold was,<sup>001</sup> what splendour she had entered upon the joys,<sup>001</sup> what splendor she had gone into the new,<sup>001</sup> what glory she had gone in with her,<sup>001</sup> what a halo she had entered with her,<sup>001</sup> were sitting before a large iron stove with,<sup>001</sup> were sitting before a great iron stove with,<sup>001</sup> were left many through which the cold wind,<sup>001</sup> well as a cradle some day when he,<sup>001</sup> wax tapers were burning on the green branches,<sup>001</sup> was to the land of the blessed that,<sup>001</sup> was the only one who had been good,<sup>001</sup> was the little girl walking about on her,<sup>001</sup> was such a delicious smell of roast goose,<sup>001</sup> was stretching out her feet to warm them,<sup>001</sup> was still larger and more decorated than that,<sup>001</sup> was steaming famously with its stuffing of apple,<sup>001</sup> was spread with a snowy cloth and pretty,<sup>001</sup> was sitting under the most magnificent christmas tree,<sup>001</sup> was sitting under the most beautiful christmas tree,<sup>001</sup> was sitting under a most beautiful christmas tree,<sup>001</sup> was sitting right before a great iron stove,<sup>001</sup> was sitting in front of a big stove,<sup>001</sup> was running across the street to avoid two,<sup>001</sup> was quite an illumination for that poor little,<sup>001</sup> was picked up by a boy who ran,<sup>001</sup> was nothing to be seen but the thick,<sup>001</sup> was much larger and much more beautiful than,<sup>001</sup> was much bigger and more beautifully decorated than,<sup>001</sup> was left sitting with the end of the,<sup>001</sup> was her grandmother who appeared in the circle,<sup>001</sup> was greater and more ornamented than the one,<sup>001</sup> was brighter than in the middle of the,<sup>001</sup> was almost as cold at home as it,<sup>001</sup> was a splendid fire blazing in it and,<sup>001</sup> was a most delicious odour of roast goose,<sup>001</sup> wanted to be quite sure of keeping her,<sup>001</sup> waddled along the ground with a knife and,<sup>001</sup> waddled along the floor with a knife and,<sup>001</sup> waddled along the floor straight to the little,<sup>001</sup> waddled along the floor right up to the,<sup>001</sup> very well as a cradle some day when,<sup>001</sup> vanish like the warm fire in the stove,<sup>001</sup> use it very well as a cradle some,<sup>001</sup> use it for a cradle when he got,<sup>001</sup> up the biggest cracks with rags and straw,<sup>001</sup> two carriages were passing at a terrible rate,<sup>001</sup> true she had on a pair of slippers,<sup>001</sup> trimmed than the one she had seen through,<sup>001</sup> trembling with cold and hunger crept she on,<sup>001</sup> told her when a star falls a soul,<sup>001</sup> told her that whenever a star falls a,<sup>001</sup> to the little maiden as though she were,<sup>001</sup> to the land of the blessed that they,<sup>001</sup> to take one out of the bundle and,<sup>001</sup> to her the savory smell of roast goose,<sup>001</sup> to her as though she were sitting before,<sup>001</sup> to go on with her little bare feet,<sup>001</sup> to go farther and farther away from her,<sup>001</sup> to enter upon the joys of a new,<sup>001</sup> to be seen but the thick black wall,<sup>001</sup> to be quite sure of keeping her grandmother,<sup>001</sup> to avoid two carriages that were rolling rapidly,<sup>001</sup> time she was sitting under a lovely christmas,<sup>001</sup> time it was her grandmother who appeared in,<sup>001</sup> till they were in that place where neither,<sup>001</sup> till she saw that they were only the,<sup>001</sup> till it came up to the poor little,<sup>001</sup> through which the wind whistled even though the,<sup>001</sup> through the glass doors of the rich merchant,<sup>001</sup> through the glass door in the rich merchant,<sup>001</sup> through it although they stuffed up the biggest,<sup>001</sup> thousands of lights were burning on the green,<sup>001</sup> thousands of lighted candles gleamed upon its branches,<sup>001</sup> thousands of candles burned on the green branches,<sup>001</sup> thought she was sitting right before a great,<sup>001</sup> thought not of her beauty nor of the,<sup>001</sup> thought it would do capially for a cradle,<sup>001</sup> thought he could use it very well as,<sup>001</sup> though the largest rents had been stopped with,<sup>001</sup> though the largest cracks were stopped up with,<sup>001</sup> though the biggest cracks had been stuffed with,<sup>001</sup> thou wilt vanish like the warm fire in,<sup>001</sup> thou wilt leave me as soon as the,<sup>001</sup> those that you see in the shop windows,<sup>001</sup> those in the printshops looked down at her,<sup>001</sup> those in the print shops looked down upon,<sup>001</sup> this time she was sitting under a lovely,<sup>001</sup> this time it was her grandmother who appeared,<sup>001</sup> this cold and uncomfortable darkness a poor little,<sup>001</sup> this cold and darkness there went along the,<sup>001</sup> thinking it might serve him as a doll,<sup>001</sup> thing lost them as she scuffled away across,<sup>001</sup> they were not of much use to her,<sup>001</sup> they were much too large for her feet,<sup>001</sup> they were in that place where neither cold,<sup>001</sup> they stuffed up the biggest cracks with rags,<sup>001</sup> they soared in a halo of light and,<sup>001</sup> they only had the roof over them and,<sup>001</sup> they now looked like stars in the sky,<sup>001</sup> they had stopped the largest cracks with rags,<sup>001</sup> they had only the house roof above them,<sup>001</sup> they had last been worn by her mother,<sup>001</sup> they had hitherto been used by her mother,<sup>001</sup> they fell off the poor little girl s,<sup>001</sup> they certainly had a roof over their heads,<sup>001</sup> there were left many through which the cold,<sup>001</sup> there was the little girl walking about on,<sup>001</sup> there was such a delicious smell of roast,<sup>001</sup> there was nothing to be seen but the,<sup>001</sup> there was a wonderful smell of roast goose,<sup>001</sup> there was a splendid fire blazing in it,<sup>001</sup> there was a savoury smell of roast goose,<sup>001</sup> there was a most delicious odour of roast,<sup>001</sup> there was a glorious smell of roast goose,<sup>001</sup> there the wall became transparent like a veil,<sup>001</sup> there she was sitting under the most magnificent,<sup>001</sup> there came to her the savory smell of,<sup>001</sup>

there appeared before her the dear old grandmother, <sup>001</sup> then she was sitting under the most beautiful, <sup>001</sup> them now as bright stars in the sky, <sup>001</sup> them in running across the street when two, <sup>001</sup> them flew in brightness and joy above the, <sup>001</sup> them fell and made a bright streak of, <sup>001</sup> them as she scuffled away across the street, <sup>001</sup> them and the wind whistled through it although, <sup>001</sup> the youngster stretched out her feet to warm, <sup>001</sup> the wonderful roast goose and the beautiful big, <sup>001</sup> the wind whistled through it although they stuffed, <sup>001</sup> the wind whistled even though the biggest cracks, <sup>001</sup> the whole bundle of matches quickly against the, <sup>001</sup> the whole bundle of matches against the wall, <sup>001</sup> the table was spread with a snowy cloth, <sup>001</sup> the table was spread a snow white tablecloth, <sup>001</sup> the table was covered with a bright white, <sup>001</sup> the table spread with a snow white damask, <sup>001</sup> the sun of new year s morning rose, <sup>001</sup> the street when two carriages were passing terribly, <sup>001</sup> the street to avoid two carriages that were, <sup>001</sup> the street just as two carriages were passing, <sup>001</sup> the snowflakes fell upon her long yellow hair, <sup>001</sup> the snowflakes fell on her long yellow hair, <sup>001</sup> the snowflakes fell on her long flaxen hair, <sup>001</sup> the snowflakes fell on her long fair hair, <sup>001</sup> the snow flakes covered her long flaxen hair, <sup>001</sup> the snow flakes covered her long fair hair, <sup>001</sup> the small stump of the burned match in, <sup>001</sup> the slightest suspicion of what beautiful things she, <sup>001</sup> the shoes could not be found at all, <sup>001</sup> the savour of roast goose reached her from, <sup>001</sup> the roof were stopped up with straw and, <sup>001</sup> the roof over them and the wind whistled, <sup>001</sup> the roast goose was steaming famously with its, <sup>001</sup> the roast goose stuffed with apples and dried, <sup>001</sup> the rich merchant s house this very last, <sup>001</sup> the remains of the burnt out match in, <sup>001</sup> the remains of the burnt match in her, <sup>001</sup> the remains of the burned match in her, <sup>001</sup> the poor little thing lost them as she, <sup>001</sup> the poor little girl s feet when she, <sup>001</sup> the poor little girl lost them in running, <sup>001</sup> the poor little girl had to go on, <sup>001</sup> the poor little creature was hungry and perishing, <sup>001</sup> the poor girl with red cheeks and smiling, <sup>001</sup> the poor girl might be seen leaning against, <sup>001</sup> the other was pounced upon by a boy, <sup>001</sup> the other was picked up by a boy, <sup>001</sup> the other had been snatched up by a, <sup>001</sup> the other had been laid hold of by, <sup>001</sup> the only person who had ever loved her, <sup>001</sup> the only one who had been good to, <sup>001</sup> the one which she had seen through the, <sup>001</sup> the one she had seen when she peeped, <sup>001</sup> the one she had seen last christmas through, <sup>001</sup> the one she had seen last christmas eve, <sup>001</sup> the one projected a little beyond the other, <sup>001</sup> the new year s sun shone upon the, <sup>001</sup> the new year s sun shone on the, <sup>001</sup> the new year s joy and happiness with, <sup>001</sup> the matches of which one bundle was burned, <sup>001</sup> the matches made it as bright as day, <sup>001</sup> the matches gave such a brilliant light that, <sup>001</sup> the matches gave a light that was brighter, <sup>001</sup> the matches burned with such a splendor that, <sup>001</sup> the matches burned with such a brilliant light, <sup>001</sup> the matches burned with such a blaze of, <sup>001</sup> the match went out and nothing but the, <sup>001</sup> the many chinks in the roof were stopped, <sup>001</sup> the little maiden walked on with her tiny, <sup>001</sup> the little maiden stretched out her hands towards, <sup>001</sup> the little maiden stretched out her feet to, <sup>001</sup> the little maiden as though she were sitting, <sup>001</sup> the little maid lost them as she slipped, <sup>001</sup> the little half burned match in her hand, <sup>001</sup> the little girl with red cheeks and smiling, <sup>001</sup> the little girl with red cheeks and a, <sup>001</sup> the little girl went with her little naked, <sup>001</sup> the little girl went with her bare feet, <sup>001</sup> the little girl walking about on her naked, <sup>001</sup> the little girl walked on her naked feet, <sup>001</sup> the little girl thought she was sitting right, <sup>001</sup> the little girl stretched out both her hands, <sup>001</sup> the little girl stretched her feet out to, <sup>001</sup> the little girl stretched forth her hand towards, <sup>001</sup> the little girl stretched both her hands toward, <sup>001</sup> the little girl reached both her hands toward, <sup>001</sup> the little girl ran across the street just, <sup>001</sup> the little girl had lost them running across, <sup>001</sup> the little girl had already stretched out her, <sup>001</sup> the little girl fancied that she was sitting, <sup>001</sup> the little girl could see into the room, <sup>001</sup> the little creature stretched out her feet to, <sup>001</sup> the little creature lost them as she hurried, <sup>001</sup> the little body still sitting with the ends, <sup>001</sup> the lights streaming behind it like a long, <sup>001</sup> the light seemed to go farther and farther, <sup>001</sup> the light of the matches made it as, <sup>001</sup> the light fell on the wall it became, <sup>001</sup> the latter became as transparent as a veil, <sup>001</sup> the largest rents had been stopped with straw, <sup>001</sup> the largest cracks were stopped up with straw, <sup>001</sup> the larger of the many chinks in the, <sup>001</sup> the land of the blessed that they had, <sup>001</sup> the house sat the little girl with red, <sup>001</sup> the ground with a knife and fork in, <sup>001</sup> the grandmother been so beautiful and so tall, <sup>001</sup> the goose jumped from the dish and waddled, <sup>001</sup> the goose jumped down from the dish and, <sup>001</sup> the goose hopped from the dish with the, <sup>001</sup> the good old grandmother looked so tall and, <sup>001</sup> the glow the old grandmother stood clear and, <sup>001</sup> the glass doors of the rich merchant s, <sup>001</sup> the glass door in the rich merchant s, <sup>001</sup> the floor with knife and fork in its, <sup>001</sup> the floor with a knife and fork in, <sup>001</sup> the floor right up to the poor child, <sup>001</sup> the flakes of snow covered her long fair, <sup>001</sup> the ends of the burnt out matches in, <sup>001</sup> the end of the burnt out match in, <sup>001</sup> the dish with the carving knife and fork, <sup>001</sup> the dish and waddled along the floor with, <sup>001</sup> the corner by the house sat the little, <sup>001</sup> the cold morning light the poor little girl, <sup>001</sup> the christmas lights kept rising higher and higher, <sup>001</sup> the child stretched out her hands towards them, <sup>001</sup> the child stretched out her hands to them, <sup>001</sup> the child stretched out her feet to warm, <sup>001</sup> the child sat in the stiffness of death, <sup>001</sup> the carving knife and fork sticking in his, <sup>001</sup> the bundle and strike it on the wall, <sup>001</sup> the bundle and rub it against the wall, <sup>001</sup> the brightness there appeared before her the dear, <sup>001</sup> the brightness the old grandmother stood clear and, <sup>001</sup> the box and rub it against the wall, <sup>001</sup> the biggest cracks had been stuffed with straw, <sup>001</sup> that whenever a star falls an immortal spirit, <sup>001</sup> that whenever a star falls a soul mounts, <sup>001</sup> that were quite red and blue from cold, <sup>001</sup> that they had hitherto been used by her, <sup>001</sup> that the little maiden stretched out her feet, <sup>001</sup> that the little creature stretched out her feet, <sup>001</sup> that she was sitting in front of a, <sup>001</sup> that she had seen through the glass door, <sup>001</sup> that she could see through it into the, <sup>001</sup> that noon day could scarcely have been brighter, <sup>001</sup> that moment the light of the match was, <sup>001</sup> that it would serve for a cradle when, <sup>001</sup> that it would do for a cradle when, <sup>001</sup> that it was brighter than in the middle, <sup>001</sup> that it was brighter than at noon day, <sup>001</sup> that it became brighter than in the middle, <sup>001</sup> that a soul is going up to heaven, <sup>001</sup> than the one which she had seen through, <sup>001</sup> than the one she had seen when she, <sup>001</sup> than that she had seen through the glass, <sup>001</sup> than even the one she had seen through, <sup>001</sup> take one out of the bundle and rub, <sup>001</sup> take one from the box and rub it, <sup>001</sup> take a single one out of the bundle, <sup>001</sup> table was spread with a snowy cloth and, <sup>001</sup> table was covered with a bright white cloth, <sup>001</sup> table spread with a snow white damask cloth, <sup>001</sup> suspicion of what beautiful things she had seen, <sup>001</sup> sun of new year s morning rose up, <sup>001</sup> such as she had seen in shop windows, <sup>001</sup> such a splendor that it was brighter than, <sup>001</sup> such a delicious smell of roast goose in, <sup>001</sup> such a brilliant light that it was brighter, <sup>001</sup> such a brilliant light that it became brighter, <sup>001</sup> stump of the burned match in her hand, <sup>001</sup> stuffed with apples and prunes was steaming on, <sup>001</sup> stuffed with apples and dried plums stood at, <sup>001</sup> stuffed up the biggest cracks with rags and, <sup>001</sup> strike it on the wall to warm her, <sup>001</sup> stretched out her hands towards them in delight, <sup>001</sup> stretched out her feet to warm them likewise, <sup>001</sup> stretched her feet out to warm them also, <sup>001</sup> street when two carriages were passing terribly fast, <sup>001</sup> street to avoid two carriages that were rolling, <sup>001</sup> street just as two carriages were passing at, <sup>001</sup> stove with shining brass knobs and a brass, <sup>001</sup> stove with polished brass feet and brass shovel, <sup>001</sup> stove with bright brass feet and brass mountings, <sup>001</sup> stopped the largest cracks with rags and straw, <sup>001</sup> still the lights of the christmas tree rose, <sup>001</sup> still sitting with the ends of the burnt, <sup>001</sup> still larger and more decorated than that she, <sup>001</sup> stiff and stark sat the child there with, <sup>001</sup> steaming famously with its stuffing of apple and, <sup>001</sup> steamed famously and sent forth a most savory, <sup>001</sup> stark sat the child there with her matches, <sup>001</sup> star fell down a soul went up to, <sup>001</sup> star fell down a soul mounted up to, <sup>001</sup> star falls an immortal spirit returns to the, <sup>001</sup> star falls a soul mounts up to god, <sup>001</sup> star falls a soul is going up to, <sup>001</sup> spread with a snowy cloth and pretty china, <sup>001</sup> splendour she had entered upon the joys of, <sup>001</sup> splendor that it was brighter than in the, <sup>001</sup> splendor she had gone into the new year, <sup>001</sup> splendid fire blazing in it and warming her, <sup>001</sup> spirit returns to the god who gave it, <sup>001</sup> sort of slippers on when she left her, <sup>001</sup> some sort of slippers on when she left, <sup>001</sup> some day or other should have children himself, <sup>001</sup> sold no matches and could not bring a, <sup>001</sup> sold any matches or got a single penny, <sup>001</sup> sold any matches and could not bring a, <sup>001</sup> soared in a halo of light and joy, <sup>001</sup> so you can guess they were large ones, <sup>001</sup> so the poor little girl had to go, <sup>001</sup> so the little maiden walked on with her, <sup>001</sup> so the little girl walked on her naked, <sup>001</sup> so that she could see through it into, <sup>001</sup> so that she could see into the room, <sup>001</sup> so on the little girl went with her, <sup>001</sup> so now the little girl went with her, <sup>001</sup> so much as a bunch all the long, <sup>001</sup> so long to keep her grandmother with her, <sup>001</sup> so blessedly it burned that the little maiden, <sup>001</sup> snow white tablecloth was spread upon the table,<sup>001</sup> snow white cloth was spread upon the table,<sup>001</sup> small stump of the burned match in her,<sup>001</sup> slippers that her mother had used till then,<sup>001</sup> slipper she d not been able to find,<sup>001</sup> slightest suspicion of what beautiful things she had,<sup>001</sup> sitting with the ends of the burnt feet to, <sup>001</sup> as she had never looked during her lifetime, <sup>001</sup> as if she were sitting before a large, <sup>001</sup> as if she were sitting before a great, <sup>001</sup> as if that she wore were bundles of matches, <sup>001</sup> apples and dried plums stood at one end, <sup>001</sup> any of her during all the long day, <sup>001</sup> any matches and could not bring a farthing, <sup>001</sup> and wherever its light fell the wall became, <sup>001</sup> and what was still more splendid to behold, <sup>001</sup> and what was still more capital to behold, <sup>001</sup> and waddled along the ground with a knife, <sup>001</sup> and waddled along the floor with a knife, <sup>001</sup> and waddled along the floor straight to the, <sup>001</sup> and grandmother who, <sup>001</sup> and they soared in a halo of light, <sup>001</sup> and they flew away in brightness and joy, <sup>001</sup> and they fell off the poor little girl, <sup>001</sup> and there was such a delicious smell of, <sup>001</sup> and there was nothing to be seen but, <sup>001</sup> and there was a wonderful smell of roast, <sup>001</sup> and there was a savoury smell of roast, <sup>001</sup> and there was a most delicious odour of, <sup>001</sup> and there was a glorious smell of roast, <sup>001</sup> and there came to her the savory smell, <sup>001</sup> and the wind whistled through it although they, <sup>001</sup> and the savour of roast goose reached her, <sup>001</sup> and the roast goose was steaming famously with, <sup>001</sup> and the poor little thing lost them as, <sup>001</sup> and the poor little girl lost them in, <sup>001</sup> and the other was pounced upon by a, <sup>001</sup> and the other was picked up by a, <sup>001</sup> and the other a boy ran away with, <sup>001</sup> and the matches gave such a brilliant light, <sup>001</sup> and the matches gave a light that was, <sup>001</sup> and the matches burned with such a splendor, <sup>001</sup> and the matches burned with such a brilliant, <sup>001</sup> and the matches burned with such a blaze, <sup>001</sup> and strike it on the wall to warm, <sup>001</sup> and stark sat the child there with her, <sup>001</sup> and so the little girl walked on her, <sup>001</sup> and she was left sitting with the end, <sup>001</sup> and she rubbed the whole bundle of matches, <sup>001</sup> and she rubbed quickly all the remaining matches, <sup>001</sup> and she quickly struck the whole bundle of, <sup>001</sup> and she made haste to rub the whole, <sup>001</sup> and she held a box of them in, <sup>001</sup> and she hastily rubbed the whole bundle of, <sup>001</sup> and she hastily lighted all the remaining matches, <sup>001</sup> and she did not dare to go home, <sup>001</sup> and she could see through it into the, <sup>001</sup> and she could see through it into a, <sup>001</sup> and she could see right through it into, <sup>001</sup> and she carried a bundle also in her, <sup>001</sup> and rub it against the wall and warm, <sup>001</sup> and on it stood a shining dinner service, <sup>001</sup> and on it a fine china dinner service, <sup>001</sup> and now she was under a most beautiful, <sup>001</sup> and now she was sitting under a most, <sup>001</sup> and now her little hands were nearly frozen, <sup>001</sup> and nothing was left to her but the, <sup>001</sup> and nothing remained but the little burned match, <sup>001</sup> and nobody had even given her a penny, <sup>001</sup> and no one had given her even a, <sup>001</sup> and no one had given her a penny, <sup>001</sup> and no one had given her a farthing, <sup>001</sup> and no one had given her a cent, <sup>001</sup> and much more beautiful than the one she, <sup>001</sup> and more ornamented than the one she had, <sup>001</sup> and more decorated than the one which she, <sup>001</sup> and more decorated than that she had seen, <sup>001</sup> and more beautifully decorated than the one she, <sup>001</sup> and made a bright streak of light across, <sup>001</sup> and left nothing but the little half burned, <sup>001</sup> and it was this of which she thought, <sup>001</sup> and it was of this that she thought, <sup>001</sup> and it smelt so deliciously of roast goose, <sup>001</sup> and in what splendor she had gone into, <sup>001</sup> and in what glory she had gone in, <sup>001</sup> and in the lustre there stood the old, <sup>001</sup> and in the glow the old grandmother stood, <sup>001</sup> and in the brightness there appeared before her, <sup>001</sup> and in the brightness the old grandmother stood, <sup>001</sup> and in the brightness stood her old grandmother,

and her mother had used them till then,<sup>001</sup> and her grandmother were celebrating their new year,<sup>001</sup> and held a packet of them in her,<sup>001</sup> and happy as she had never looked on,<sup>001</sup> stiff and stark sat the child there with her,<sup>001</sup> steaming famously with its stuffing of apple and dried,<sup>001</sup> steamed famously and sent forth a most savory smell,<sup>001</sup> star fell down a soul went up to god,<sup>001</sup> star fell down a soul mounted up to god,<sup>001</sup> star falls an immortal spirit returns to the god,<sup>001</sup> star falls a soul is going up to god,<sup>001</sup> splendour she had entered upon the joys of the,<sup>001</sup> splendor that it was brighter than in the middle,<sup>001</sup> splendor she had gone into the new year's,<sup>001</sup> splendid fire blazing in it and warming her so,<sup>001</sup> sort of slippers on when she left her home,<sup>001</sup>

so the little maiden walked on with her tiny,<sup>001</sup> so the little girl walked on her naked feet,<sup>001</sup> so that she could see through it into the,<sup>001</sup> so on the little girl went with her bare,<sup>001</sup>
so now the little girl went with her little,<sup>001</sup> so much as a bunch all the long day,<sup>001</sup> so blessedly it burned that the little maiden stretched,<sup>001</sup> small stump of the burned match in her hand,<sup>001</sup>
sitting right before a great iron stove with bright,<sup>001</sup> sitting in front of a big stove with polished,<sup>001</sup> sitting before a large iron stove with brass ornaments,<sup>001</sup> sitting before a great iron stove with shining brass,<sup>001</sup>
she was stretching out her feet to warm them,<sup>001</sup> she was sitting under the most magnificent christmas tree,<sup>001</sup> she was sitting under the most beautiful christmas tree,<sup>001</sup>
she was sitting under a most beautiful christmas tree,<sup>001</sup> she was sitting right before a great iron stove,<sup>001</sup> she was sitting in front of a big stove,<sup>001</sup> she was running across the street to avoid two,<sup>001</sup> she was left sitting with the end of the,<sup>001</sup> she wanted to be quite sure of keeping her,<sup>001</sup> she thought not of her beauty nor of the,<sup>001</sup> she saw them now as stars in the sky,<sup>001</sup> she saw them now as bright stars in the,<sup>001</sup> she saw the table spread with a snow white,<sup>001</sup> she saw that they were only the twinkling stars,<sup>001</sup> she saw now that they were the bright stars,<sup>001</sup> she sat there with the matches in her lap,<sup>001</sup> she sat down and drew up her little feet,<sup>001</sup> she sat before a great iron stove with polished,<sup>001</sup> she rubbed the whole bundle of matches quickly against,<sup>001</sup> she rubbed the whole bundle of matches against the,<sup>001</sup> she rubbed quickly all the remaining matches in the,<sup>001</sup> she pull one out of the bundle and strike,<sup>001</sup> she peeped through the glass doors at the rich,<sup>001</sup> she only dared to take one out of the,<sup>001</sup> she only dared take a single one out of,<sup>001</sup> she now sat under the most magnificent christmas tree,<sup>001</sup> she might only draw one out of the bundle,<sup>001</sup> she made haste to rub the whole bundle of,<sup>001</sup> she lifted the little girl up in her arms,<sup>001</sup> she left her own house she certainly had had,<sup>001</sup> she held a box of them in her hand,<sup>001</sup> she hastily lighted all the remaining matches in the,<sup>001</sup> she had sold no matches and could not bring,<sup>001</sup> she had seen when she peeped through the glass,<sup>001</sup> she had seen through the glass doors at the,<sup>001</sup> she had seen through the glass door in the,<sup>001</sup> she had seen last christmas through the glass door,<sup>001</sup> she had seen last christmas eve through the glass,<sup>001</sup> she had only the small stump of the burned,<sup>001</sup> she had only the remains of the burnt out,<sup>001</sup> she had only the remains of the burnt match,<sup>001</sup> she had only the remains of the burned match,<sup>001</sup> she had on a pair of slippers when she,<sup>001</sup> she had not sold any matches or got a,<sup>001</sup> she had not sold any matches and could not,<sup>001</sup> she had left her house she'd had slippers,<sup>001</sup> she had gone with her old grandmother into the,<sup>001</sup>
she had entered upon the joys of the new,<sup>001</sup> she had entered on the joys of a new,<sup>001</sup> she had certainly had some sort of slippers on,<sup>001</sup> she had been frozen on the last night of,<sup>001</sup> she found a corner where one house projected a,<sup>001</sup> she did so long to keep her grandmother with,<sup>001</sup> she could see right through it into the room,<sup>001</sup> she could only take one from the box and,<sup>001</sup> she certainly had had slippers on when she left,<sup>001</sup> she carried a small bundle of matches in her,<sup>001</sup> she carried a quantity of matches in her old,<sup>001</sup> she carried a quantity of matches in an old,<sup>001</sup>
she carried a number of matches in an old,<sup>001</sup> she and her grandmother were celebrating their new year,<sup>001</sup> serve for a cradle when he should have children,<sup>001</sup> seen when she peeped through the glass doors at,<sup>001</sup>
saying that it would serve for a cradle when,<sup>001</sup> saying that it would do for a cradle when,<sup>001</sup> saying he would use it for a cradle some,<sup>001</sup> saying he could use it very well as a,<sup>001</sup> saw them now as bright stars in the sky,<sup>001</sup> saw the table spread with a snow white damask,<sup>001</sup> savour of roast goose reached her from several houses,<sup>001</sup> sat the poor girl with red cheeks and smiling,<sup>001</sup>
said he would use it for a cradle when,<sup>001</sup> s feet when she was running across the street,<sup>001</sup> s day broke on the little body still sitting,<sup>001</sup> running across the street when two carriages were passing,<sup>001</sup> running across the street to avoid two carriages that,<sup>001</sup> rubbed the whole bundle of matches quickly against the,<sup>001</sup> rubbed the whole bundle of matches against the wall,<sup>001</sup> rubbed quickly all the remaining matches in the bundle,<sup>001</sup> rub it against the wall and warm her hands,<sup>001</sup> roof through which the wind whistled even though the,<sup>001</sup> roof over them and the wind whistled through it,<sup>001</sup> roast goose was steaming famously with its stuffing of,<sup>001</sup> roast goose stuffed with apples and prunes was steaming,<sup>001</sup> roast goose stuffed with apples and dried plums stood,<sup>001</sup> right before a great iron stove with bright brass,<sup>001</sup> remains of the burnt out match in her hand,<sup>001</sup> remained but the little burned match in her hand,<sup>001</sup>

projected farther out into the street than the other,<sup>001</sup> prettily trimmed than the one she had seen through,<sup>001</sup> poor little thing lost them as she scuffled away,<sup>001</sup> poor little girl was wandering in the dark cold,<sup>001</sup> poor little girl's feet when she was running,<sup>001</sup> poor little girl lost them in running across the,<sup>001</sup> poor little girl had to go on with her,<sup>001</sup> poor little creature was hungry and perishing with cold,<sup>001</sup> poor girl might be seen leaning against the wall,<sup>001</sup> pictures like those in the printshops looked down at,<sup>001</sup> pictures like those in the print shops looked down,<sup>001</sup> picked up by a boy who ran off with,<sup>001</sup> peeped through the glass doors at the the,<sup>001</sup> other was picked up by a boy who ran,<sup>001</sup> other had been snatched up by a little boy,<sup>001</sup> other had been laid hold of by an urchin,<sup>001</sup> ornamented than the one she had seen through the,<sup>001</sup> or how gloriously she had gone with her grandmother,<sup>001</sup> or how gloriously she and her grandmother were celebrating,<sup>001</sup> only the small stump of the burned match in,<sup>001</sup> only the remains of the burnt out match in,<sup>001</sup> only the remains of the burnt match in her,<sup>001</sup> only the remains of the burned match in her,<sup>001</sup> only take one from the box and rub it,<sup>001</sup> only had the roof over them and the wind,<sup>001</sup> only dared to take one out of the bundle,<sup>001</sup> only dared take a single one out of the,<sup>001</sup> one which she had seen through the glass door,<sup>001</sup> one slipper she had not been able to find,<sup>001</sup> one she had seen when she peeped through the,<sup>001</sup> one she had seen through the glass doors at,<sup>001</sup> one she had seen last christmas through the glass,<sup>001</sup> one she had seen last christmas eve through the,<sup>001</sup> one out of the bundle and strike it on,<sup>001</sup> one out of the bundle and rub it against,<sup>001</sup> one of which projected farther out into the street,<sup>001</sup> one of them fell and made a bright streak,<sup>001</sup> one of the shoes could not be found at,<sup>001</sup> one little match from her bundle would warm them,<sup>001</sup> one knew of the sweet visions she had beheld,<sup>001</sup> one imagined what a beautiful thing she had seen,<sup>001</sup> one house projected a little beyond the next one,<sup>001</sup> one had the slightest suspicion of what one had bought any from her all day long,<sup>001</sup> one from the box and rub it against the,<sup>001</sup> one fell down and formed a long trail of,<sup>001</sup> on the wall it became transparent like a veil,<sup>001</sup> on the table was spread a snow white tablecloth,<sup>001</sup> on the little girl went with her bare feet,<sup>001</sup> on the little body still sitting with the ends,<sup>001</sup> on the floor with knife and fork in its,<sup>001</sup> on a pair of slippers when she left home,<sup>001</sup> old apron that she wore were bundles of matches,<sup>001</sup> off the poor little girl's feet when she,<sup>001</sup> off her feet whilst she was running very fast,<sup>001</sup> of which projected farther out into the street than,<sup>001</sup> of wax tapers were burning on the green branches,<sup>001</sup> of them flew in brightness and joy above the,<sup>001</sup> of them fell and made a bright streak of,<sup>001</sup> of the shoes could not be found at all,<sup>001</sup> of the matches made it as bright as day,<sup>001</sup> of the many chinks in the roof were stopped,<sup>001</sup> of the bundle and strike it on the wall,<sup>001</sup> of the bundle and rub it against the wall,<sup>001</sup> of new year's morning rose up on the,<sup>001</sup> of course when she had left her house she,<sup>001</sup> of course she had no thoughts for such vanities,<sup>001</sup> of a big stove with polished brass feet and,<sup>001</sup> now there she was sitting under the most magnificent,<sup>001</sup> now the little girl went with her little naked,<sup>001</sup> now she was under a most beautiful christmas tree,<sup>001</sup> now she was sitting under a most beautiful christmas,<sup>001</sup> now her little hands were nearly frozen with cold,<sup>001</sup> nothing to be seen but the thick black wall,<sup>001</sup> nothing remained but the little burned match in her,<sup>001</sup> nothing but the little half burned match in her,<sup>001</sup> not sold any matches or got a single penny,<sup>001</sup> not sold any matches and could not bring a,<sup>001</sup> nor in what splendour she had entered upon the,<sup>001</sup> nor had bought any from her all day,<sup>001</sup> no one even dreamed of the splendor in which,<sup>001</sup> no matches and could not bring a penny of,<sup>001</sup> new year's sun shone upon the little corpse,<sup>001</sup> new year's sun shone on the lifeless child,<sup>001</sup> new year's sun rose upon a little pathetic,<sup>001</sup> new year's sun rose upon a little corpse,<sup>001</sup> new year's morning rose up on the little,<sup>001</sup> new year's joy and happiness with her old,<sup>001</sup> new year's day broke on the little body,<sup>001</sup> never had the good old grandmother looked so tall,<sup>001</sup> never formerly had the grandmother been so beautiful and,<sup>001</sup> much more beautiful than the one she had seen,<sup>001</sup> much larger and much more beautiful than the one,<sup>001</sup> much bigger and more beautifully decorated than the one,<sup>001</sup> motionless she sat there with the matches in her,<sup>001</sup> most delicious odour of roast goose in the streets,<sup>001</sup> more prettily trimmed than the one she had seen,<sup>001</sup> more ornamented than the one she had seen through,<sup>001</sup> more decorated than the one which she had last,<sup>001</sup> might do her good if she might only draw,<sup>001</sup> matches gave such a brilliant light that it was,<sup>001</sup> matches gave a light that was brighter than money,<sup>001</sup> matches and could not bring a farthing of money,<sup>001</sup> match might do her good if she might only,<sup>001</sup> many chinks in the roof were stopped up with,<sup>001</sup> maiden stretched out her feet to warm them also,<sup>001</sup> maiden as though she were sitting before a large,<sup>001</sup> maid lost them as she slipped across the road,<sup>001</sup> made haste to rub the whole bundle of matches,<sup>001</sup> made a bright streak of light across the sky,<sup>001</sup> lost them in running across the street when two,<sup>001</sup> lost them as she scuffled away across the street,<sup>001</sup> little thing lost them as she scuffled away across,<sup>001</sup> little maiden walked on with her tiny naked feet,<sup>001</sup> little maiden stretched out her hands towards them when,<sup>001</sup> little maiden stretched out her feet to warm them,<sup>001</sup> little maiden as though she were sitting before a,<sup>001</sup> little maid lost them as she slipped across the,<sup>001</sup> little girl with red cheeks and a smile about,<sup>001</sup> little girl was wandering in the dark cold streets,<sup>001</sup> little girl walking about on her naked little feet,<sup>001</sup> little girl thought she was sitting right before a,<sup>001</sup> little girl stretched out both her hands towards them,<sup>001</sup> little girl stretched her feet out to warm them,<sup>001</sup> little girl's feet when she was running across,<sup>001</sup> little girl ran across the street just as two,<sup>001</sup> little girl lost them in running across the street,<sup>001</sup> little girl had to go on with her little,<sup>001</sup> little girl had lost them running across the road,<sup>001</sup> little girl had already stretched out her feet to,<sup>001</sup> little girl fancied that she was sitting in front,<sup>001</sup> little feet she had drawn close up to her,<sup>001</sup> little creature stretched out her feet to warm them,<sup>001</sup> little creature lost them as she hurried across the,<sup>001</sup> little candle when she held her hand round it,<sup>001</sup> little body still sitting with the ends of the,<sup>001</sup> like those that you see in the shop windows,<sup>001</sup> like those in the printshops looked down at her,<sup>001</sup> like those in the print shops looked down upon,<sup>001</sup> like a little candle when she held her hand,<sup>001</sup> light that it was brighter than at noon day,<sup>001</sup> light seemed to go farther and farther away from,<sup>001</sup> light of the matches made it as bright as,<sup>001</sup> light fell the wall became transparent as a veil,<sup>001</sup> light fell on the wall it became transparent like,<sup>001</sup> left sitting with the end of the burnt out,<sup>001</sup> left nothing but the little half burned match in,<sup>001</sup> left many through which the cold wind could whistle,<sup>001</sup> left her own house she certainly had had slippers,<sup>001</sup> leave me as soon as the match goes out,<sup>001</sup> last christmas through the glass door at the rags,<sup>001</sup> larger of the many chinks in the roof were,<sup>001</sup> larger and much more beautiful than the one she,<sup>001</sup> larger and more decorated than that she had seen,<sup>001</sup> larger and far more prettily trimmed than the one,<sup>001</sup> know you will vanish when the match goes out,<sup>001</sup> know you will go when the match is burned,<sup>001</sup> know you will go away when the match goes,<sup>001</sup> know you will go away when the match burns,<sup>001</sup> know you will disappear when the match is burned,<sup>001</sup> know you will be gone when the match goes,<sup>001</sup> know thou wilt leave me as soon as the,<sup>001</sup> just like a little candle when she held her,<sup>001</sup> just as two carriages were passing at a terrible,<sup>001</sup> just as she was stretching out her feet to,<sup>001</sup> jumped from the dish and waddled along the floor,<sup>001</sup> jumped down from the dish and waddled along the,<sup>001</sup> its light fell the wall became transparent as a,<sup>001</sup> it would serve for a cradle when he should,<sup>001</sup> it would do for a cradle when he had,<sup>001</sup> it would do capitally for a cradle when he,<sup>001</sup> it was to the land of the blessed that,<sup>001</sup> it was still larger and more decorated than that,<sup>001</sup> it was quite an illumination for that poor little,<sup>001</sup> it was much larger and much more beautiful than,<sup>001</sup> it was much bigger and more beautifully decorated than,<sup>001</sup>

it was her grandmother who appeared in the circle, <sup>001</sup> it was greater and more ornamented than the one, <sup>001</sup> it was brighter than in the middle of the, <sup>001</sup> it was almost as cold at home as it, <sup>001</sup> it very well as a cradle some day when, <sup>001</sup> it seemed to her as though she were sitting, <sup>001</sup> it seemed really to the little maiden as though, <sup>001</sup> it might serve him as a doll s cradle, <sup>001</sup> it is a sign that a soul is going, <sup>001</sup> it for a cradle when he got children of, <sup>001</sup> it burned that the little maiden stretched out her, <sup>001</sup> it became brighter than in the middle of the, <sup>001</sup> it although they stuffed up the biggest cracks with, <sup>001</sup> is true she had on a pair of slippers, <sup>001</sup> is a sign that a soul is going up, <sup>001</sup> iron stove with shining brass knobs and a brass, <sup>001</sup> iron stove with polished brass feet and brass shovel, <sup>001</sup> iron stove with bright brass feet and brass mountings, <sup>001</sup> into the new year s joy and happiness with, <sup>001</sup> in with her grandmother to the new year s, <sup>001</sup> in what splendour she had entered upon the joys, <sup>001</sup> in what splendor she had gone into the new, <sup>001</sup> in what glory she had gone in with her, <sup>001</sup> in what a halo she had entered with her, <sup>001</sup> in this cold and uncomfortable darkness a poor little, <sup>001</sup> in this cold and darkness there went along the, <sup>001</sup> in the roof were stopped up with straw and, <sup>001</sup> in the glow the old grandmother stood clear and, <sup>001</sup> in the corner by the house sat the little, <sup>001</sup> in the cold morning light the poor little girl, <sup>001</sup> in the brightness there appeared before her the dear, <sup>001</sup> in the brightness the old grandmother stood clear and, <sup>001</sup> in that moment the light of the match was, <sup>001</sup> in running across the street when two carriages were, <sup>001</sup> in front of a big stove with polished brass, <sup>001</sup> in an old pinafore she had some bundles of, <sup>001</sup> in an old apron that she wore were bundles, <sup>001</sup> in an old apron she carried several packages of, <sup>001</sup> in an old apron she carried a number of, <sup>001</sup> immortal spirit returns to the god who gave it, <sup>001</sup> if she were sitting before a large iron stove, <sup>001</sup> if she were sitting before a great iron stove, <sup>001</sup> if she sat before a great iron stove with, <sup>001</sup> if she only dared to take one out of, <sup>001</sup> if she only dared take a single one out, <sup>001</sup> if she might only draw one out of the, <sup>001</sup> if she might only draw it from the bundle, <sup>001</sup> if she could only take one from the box, <sup>001</sup> if she could only draw one from the bundle, <sup>001</sup> i know you will vanish when the match goes, <sup>001</sup> i know you will go when the match is, <sup>001</sup> i know you will disappear when the match is, <sup>001</sup> i know you will be gone when the match, <sup>001</sup> i know thou wilt leave me as soon as, <sup>001</sup> hundreds of wax tapers were burning on the green, <sup>001</sup> hundreds of wax tapers lighted up the green branches, <sup>001</sup>
house sat the little girl with red cheeks and, <sup>001</sup> hopped from the dish with the carving knife and, <sup>001</sup> her when a star falls a soul goes to, <sup>001</sup> her that whenever a star falls a soul mounts, <sup>001</sup> her own house she certainly had had slippers on, <sup>001</sup> her little hands were almost benumbed with the cold, <sup>001</sup> her little feet she had drawn close up to, <sup>001</sup> her home was almost as cold as the street, <sup>001</sup> her grandmother who appeared in the circle of flame, <sup>001</sup> her grandmother were celebrating their new year s festival, <sup>001</sup> her grandmother upon the glories of the new year, <sup>001</sup> her grandmother to enter upon the joys of a, <sup>001</sup> her grandmother she had entered on the joys of, <sup>001</sup> her grandmother had never looked so grand and beautiful, <sup>001</sup> her grandmother had never appeared so beautiful nor so, <sup>001</sup> her good if she might only draw it from, <sup>001</sup> her feet whilst she was running very fast across, <sup>001</sup> her bare feet quite red and blue with the, <sup>001</sup> her as though she were sitting before a large, <sup>001</sup> he would use it for a cradle when he, <sup>001</sup> he would use it for a cradle some day, <sup>001</sup> he thought it would do capially for a cradle, <sup>001</sup> he thought he could use it very well as, <sup>001</sup> he some day or other should have children himself, <sup>001</sup> he said he would use it for a cradle, <sup>001</sup> hastily lighted all the remaining matches in the bundle, <sup>001</sup> happy as she had never looked during her lifetime, <sup>001</sup> happily she had gone with her old grandmother into, <sup>001</sup> halo she had entered with her grandmother upon the, <sup>001</sup> had told her when a star falls a soul, <sup>001</sup>
had the grandmother been so beautiful and so tall, <sup>001</sup> had the good old grandmother looked so tall and, <sup>001</sup> had stopped the largest cracks with rags and straw, <sup>001</sup> had some sort of slippers on when she left, <sup>001</sup> had sold no matches and could not bring a, <sup>001</sup> had seen when she peeped through the glass doors, <sup>001</sup> had seen through the glass doors at the rich, <sup>001</sup> had seen through the glass door in the rich, <sup>001</sup> had seen last christmas through the glass door at, <sup>001</sup> had seen last christmas eve through the glass doors, <sup>001</sup> had only the small stump of the burned match, <sup>001</sup> had only the remains of the burnt out match, <sup>001</sup> had only the remains of the burnt match in, <sup>001</sup> had only the remains of the burned match in, <sup>001</sup> had on a pair of slippers when she left, <sup>001</sup> had not sold any matches or got a single, <sup>001</sup> had not sold any matches and could not bring, <sup>001</sup> had never before looked so big or so beautiful, <sup>001</sup> had left her house she d had slippers on, <sup>001</sup> had gone with her old grandmother into the bright, <sup>001</sup> had gone with her grandmother to enter upon the, <sup>001</sup> had gone into the new year s joy and, <sup>001</sup> had gone in with her grandmother to the new, <sup>001</sup> had entered with her grandmother upon the glories of, <sup>001</sup> had entered upon the joys of the new year, <sup>001</sup> had entered on the joys of a new year, <sup>001</sup> had dropped off her feet whilst she was running, <sup>001</sup> had certainly had some sort of slippers on when, <sup>001</sup> had bought so much as a bunch all the, <sup>001</sup> had bought any of them the live long day, <sup>001</sup> had bought any of her during all the long, <sup>001</sup> had been frozen on the last night of the, <sup>001</sup>

formerly had the grandmother been so beautiful and so, <sup>001</sup> for you know it was new year s eve, <sup>001</sup> for they had only the house roof above them, <sup>001</sup> for she wished to keep her grandmother with her, <sup>001</sup>

still the lights of the christmas tree rose higher and, <sup>001</sup> still sitting with the ends of the burnt out matches, <sup>001</sup> still larger and more decorated than that she had seen, <sup>001</sup> stiff and stark sat the child there with her matches, <sup>001</sup> steaming famously with its stuffing of apple and dried plums, <sup>001</sup> star falls an immortal spirit returns to the god who, <sup>001</sup> splendour she had entered upon the joys of the new, <sup>001</sup> splendor that it was brighter than in the middle of, <sup>001</sup> splendor she had gone into the new year s joy, <sup>001</sup> splendid fire blazing in it and warming her so beautifully, <sup>001</sup> some sort of slippers on when she left her home, <sup>001</sup> sold no matches and could not bring a penny of, <sup>001</sup> sold any matches and could not bring a farthing of, <sup>001</sup> so the poor little girl had to go on with, <sup>001</sup> so the little maiden walked on with her tiny naked, <sup>001</sup> so that she could see through it into the room, <sup>001</sup> so on the little girl went with her bare feet, <sup>001</sup> so now the little girl went with her little naked, <sup>001</sup> so blessedly it burned that the little maiden stretched out, <sup>001</sup> sitting with the ends of the burnt out matches in, <sup>001</sup> sitting with the end of the burnt out match in, <sup>001</sup> sitting right before a great iron stove with bright brass, <sup>001</sup>

she was sitting in front of a big stove with, she was running across the street to avoid two carriages, she was left sitting with the end of the burnt, she wanted to be quite sure of keeping her grandmother, she thought not of her beauty nor of the cold, she saw them now as bright stars in the sky, she saw the table spread with a snow white damask, she sat down and drew up her little feet under, she sat before a great iron stove with polished brass, she rubbed the whole bundle of matches quickly against the, she rubbed the whole bundle of matches against the wall, she rubbed quickly all the remaining matches in the bundle, she pull one out of the bundle and strike it, she peeped through the glass doors at the rich merchant, she only dared to take one out of the bundle, she only dared take a single one out of the, she made haste to rub the whole bundle of matches, she left her own house she certainly had had slippers, she hastily lighted all the remaining matches in the bundle, she had sold no matches and could not bring a, she had seen when she peeped through the glass doors, she had seen through the glass doors at the rich, she had seen through the glass door in the rich, she had seen last christmas through the glass door at, she had seen last christmas eve through the glass doors, she had only the small stump of the burned match, she had only the remains of single, she had not sold any matches and could not bring, she had left her house she d had slippers on, she had gone with her old grandmother into the bright, she had gone with her grandmother to enter upon the, she had gone into the new year s joy and, she had gone in with her grandmother to the new, she had entered with her grandmother upon the glories of, she had entered upon the joys of the new year, she had entered on the joys of a new year, she had certainly had some sort of slippers on when, she had been frozen on the last night of the, she found a corner where one house projected a little, she did so long to keep her grandmother with her, she could only take one from the box and rub, she certainly had had slippers on when she left home, she carried a small bundle of matches in her hand, she carried a quantity of matches in her old apron, she carried a quantity of matches in an old apron, she carried a number of matches in an old apron, she and her grandmother were celebrating their new year s, serve for a cradle when he should have children of, seen when she peeped through the glass doors at the, seen through the glass doors at the rich merchant s, seen through the glass door in the rich merchant s, seen last christmas through the glass door at the rich, seen last christmas eve through the glass doors of the, seemed to her as though she were sitting before a, seemed really to the little maiden as though she were, saying that it would serve for a cradle when he, saying that it would do for a cradle when he, saying he would use it for a cradle some day, saying he could use it very well as a cradle, saw the table spread with a snow white damask cloth, sat the poor girl with red cheeks and smiling mouth, sat the little girl with red cheeks and smiling mouth, sat the little girl with red cheeks and a smile, sat down and drew up her little feet under her, sat before a great iron stove with polished brass feet, said he would use it for a cradle when he, s feet when she was running across the street to, s day broke on the little body still sitting with, running across the street when two carriages were passing terribly, running across the street to avoid two carriages that were, rubbed the whole bundle of matches quickly against the wall, roof through which the wind whistled even though the biggest, roof over them and the wind whistled through it although, roast goose was steaming famously with its stuffing of apple, roast goose stuffed with apples and prunes was steaming on, roast goose stuffed with apples and dried plums stood at, right before a great iron stove with bright brass feet, reeled about on the floor with knife and fork in, really to the little maiden as though she were sitting, ran across the street just as two carriages were passing, pull one out of the bundle and strike it on, prettily trimmed than the one she had seen through the, poor little thing lost them as she scuffled away across, poor little girl was wandering in the dark cold streets, poor little girl s feet when she was running across, poor little girl lost them in running across the street, poor little girl had to go on with her little, off, ornamented than the one she had seen through the glass, or how gloriously she had gone with her grandmother to, or how gloriously she and her grandmother were celebrating their, only the small still sitting with the ends of, on the floor with knife and fork in its breast, off the poor little girl s feet when she was, off her feet whilst she was running very fast across, of which projected farther out into the street than the, of them flew in brightness and joy above the earth, of them fell and made a bright streak of light, of the many chinks in the roof were stopped up, of the bundle and strike it on the wall to, of new year s morning rose up on the little, of course when she had left her house she d, of a big stove with polished brass feet and handles, now there she was sitting under the most magnificent christmas, now the little girl went with her little naked feet, now she was sitting under a most beautiful christmas tree, nothing remained but the little burned match in her hand, nothing but the little half burned match in her hand, not sold any matches and could not bring a farthing, nor in what splendour she had entered upon the joys, nor in what a halo she had entered with her, nobody had bought any of her during all the long, no one knew of the sweet visions she had beheld, no one imagined what a beautiful thing she had seen, no one had the slightest suspicion of what beautiful things, no one had bought so much as a bunch all, no one had bought anything of her the whole day, no one had bought any of them the live long, no one had bought any from her all day long, no matches and could not bring a penny of money, new year s sun rose upon a little pathetic figure, new year s morning rose up on the little corpse, new year s joy and happiness with her old grandmother, new year s day broke on the little body still, never had the good old grandmother looked so tall and, never formerly had the grandmother been so beautiful and so, much more beautiful than the one she had seen last, much larger and much more beautiful than the one she, much bigger and more beautifully decorated than the one she, motionless she sat there with the matches in her lap, more prettily trimmed than the one she had seen through, more ornamented than the one she had seen through the, more decorated than the one which she had seen through, more decorated than that she had seen through the glass, more beautifully decorated than the one she had seen when, more beautiful than the one she had seen last christmas, might do her good if she might only draw it, matches gave such a brilliant light that it was brighter, matches burned with such a splendor that it was brighter,
